MAKES HER SON EXPOSE HOLD-UP GANG

SUGGESTS SEIZING SALOONS

LONDON, April 2.—Temperance leaders estimated today that at least 50,000 persons, ranging in station from the lowliest of laborers to members of the peerage, have forsworn the use of alcoholic beverages during the remainder of the war as a result of King George's letter promising to bar intoxicants from the royal palaces.

Cabinet ministers, judges, diplomats, lawyers and other men high in public life were quick to follow the lead set by the King and Earl Kitchener, secretary for state for war, who issued an order yesterday barring all alcoholic drinks from his household.

The profits of the public house keepers have already begun to shrink, and it will not be long, it is figured, until they will be losing $500,000 a day.

CONSIDERED CLOSING BARS.

The "water wagon" ranks are getting more recruits than the war office. Not only men, but women, are "swearing off," although the recent protests against hard drinking were based on the ground that intoxication was hampering the output of the arsenals and ammunition factories.

However, the enthusiasm of the women for the "water wagon" is in line with the government's new policy to stamp out the liquor traffic entirely if possible.

Not long ago the government was considering the advisability of clos-

WHAT GREAT BRITAIN SPENDS ON LIQUOR

The United Kingdom's liquor bill for 1913 was higher than in 1912, and the total for 1914 was above 1913, according to unofficial figures. The totals in 1913 and 1912 were:

1913	$833,405,000
1912	$807,766,650

In the latter year the expenditures on defence were:

Army	$138,245,000
Navy	$239,290,000

Thus the drink bill more than doubled the combined Army and Navy expenditures.

It appears from the statistical Abstract of the British Empire, a government work, that the consumption, per capita, of spirits and beer in the last year under observation, 1909, measured in gallons, was as follows in the United Kingdom, compared with other countries:

	Sprits	Beer	Wine
United Kingdom	0.70	26.2	0.27
Germany	1.58	22.0	1.19
France	1.32	7.9	34.5
Russia	1.10	Not Counted
United States	1.14	18.5	0.45

In 1913 the average expenditure per head for the year for drink was $90.50.

The average per head is highest in England, lower in Scotland, lowest in Ireland.

The total consumption of drink, in gallons, in the United Kingdom in the year was as follows:

Malt liquors, 1,397,314,800 gallons; wines, 15,206,400 gallons; spirits, 40,078,000 gallons.

The government revenue in 1913-14, from excise duties amounted in the United Kingdom to $197,950,000.

For 1914-15 the duties are estimated by the government at $198,250,000.

Maine Salmon Will Be Sent to President

BANGOR, Me., April 2.—A sixteen-pound salmon caught here by John L. Thomas of Rockland will be sent to President Wilson by local Democrats. Seven salmon were the day's catch.

Two German Towns Shelled by Airman

BERLIN (by wireless), April 2.—Two more German towns have been bombarded by a hostile aviator. The following statement was issued at the War Office today:

"An aviator of the enemy flew over Mulheim, Baden, and dropped bombs. These caused damage only to the buildings of the town. Three bombs were dropped upon Neuenburg on the Rhine. The damage caused was slight. The aviator is believed to have been a French airman from Belfort."

"Impossible Now for Turks to Make Peace

ROME, April 2.—"It is impossible for Turkey to make peace now. The end of the Unspeakable Turk in Europe is at hand. Russia is now about to realize her program."

M. Kroupenski, Russian Ambassador to Italy, made this emphatic declaration today when he was asked as to the accuracy of reports that Turkey had tried to open negotiations for peace with Russia.

The Russian envoy said that the allies were confident of ultimate victory, and that their aims as regards the Balkans and European Turkey would permit of no negotiations with the Porte.

92 Railroads Show Increased Earnings

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Ninety-two of the principal railroads of the United States earned during February, 1915, net operating revenue of $22,802,331, the interstate commerce commission today reported. Total operating revenues amounted to $95,450,221, and total operating expenses of $72,647,890. Net revenue per mile was $223 compared with $181 in February, 1914.

JOHNSON CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

By ED. W. SMITH.

HAVANA, Cuba, April 2.—Jack Johnson thinks he will win from Jess Willard Monday and that he will win quickly. Johnson feels so sure of it he has ceased working at all. In a private interview with two newspaper friends last night Jack made it plain that there is no doubt in his mind that he would be returned the winner.

"Come out in the morning when nobody is around and see me get rubbed down," he said. The rubbers went at him after his road work and were with him for fully an hour and a half. It was plain from the treatment given that Johnson is trying to get rubbed into shape rather than work off the flesh that is so hard to shake. Vaseline is used freely, almost a pint daily being massaged in. This he thinks is soothing to the muscles and keeps them pliable and free. It never has occurred to him that vaseline might be a flesh builder.

"You didn't like my work yesterday, eh?" said Johnson. "I am in good shape just the same and as thoroughly satisfied with my condition. Feel what you say is fat? It's firm, isn't it? That shows that I am in good shape.

"I'm all right and capable of going at the same old top speed. What makes me so sure that I will win is just this: Willard has not the experience to cope with an old timer like me. I will make him do everything he does not want to do. I know he does not like to be feinted and I will give him an overload of that right from the start. I would not be surprised if I win in a few rounds.

SURE OF WINNING BOUT.

"Jess is strong, you say. I don't know that he is, but I'll bet you something that he is not as strong as either Sam McVey or Denver Ed Martin, the strongest men I ever met. Willard has what I call fictitious strength and he does not know how to use it. He can't stand rough usage, I am sure of that, and this is going to be a rough fight. A big punch is no good unless it is backed by skill. The fighter with a big wallop must know how to get in well enough to use it and Willard never will get in on me. He is clumsy and slow and doesn't breathe well. Jess has lots of weak points for a man fighting for the title.

"I feel certain of a knockout inside of an hour."

Johnson was sincere in every word he said and emphasized his remarks with sweeping gestures. He even stopped rubbing time and again to make a point in his talk. It looks

EXPOSES 4 OTHERS IN HOLDUP

Mrs. John Harrington of No. 393 Second street today helped clear the mystery of the holdup of Joseph H. Miley, a South Boston liquor dealer, on the night of February 17. Although Mrs. Harrington's son, Frank, aged twenty, was one of the gang of five young highwaymen, she insisted that he help the authorities by making a full confession, which he did before Judge Logan in the South Boston court this morning. It is the first wholesale roundup since the epidemic of holdups in Boston.

Harrington is serving three to five years at State Prison. He was sentenced recently by Judge Aiken in the Superior Court. He was put on the stand today to identify four alleged confederates in the robbing of Miley, who was beaten into insensibility and ten teeth knocked out.

IMPLICATES FOUR OTHERS.

The defendants implicated by his testimony are Alfred M. O'Connell, twenty, No. 274 Fourth street; John Coakley, twenty-one, No. 6 Pulaski avenue; James E. Noonan, twenty, No. 353 Second street, and Francis Chambers, twenty-two, East Second street.

All were bound over for the Grand Jury after a spirited hearing, in which Judge Logan threatened Attorney Henry Jarvis with contempt proceedings if he persisted in questioning Harrington along prohibited lines. Judge Logan ordered Attorney Jarvis, counsel for Noonan, to sit down and demanded and got an apology.

Miley's holdup was a subject of public interest in South Boston and Dorchester. Harrington's confession furnished all the details and laid bare the operations of a daring band of robbers who used revolvers to enforce their demands. They are thought to have been involved in other robberies of violent nature.

IDENTIFIED IN ANOTHER CASE.

Coakley and Noonan were identified by Guy Amrheim as the men who held him up at the point of a pistol at his father's wholesale liquor store, No. 88 Broadway, on the night of March 10. Both were bound over for the Grand Jury on that additional count.

Frank Harrington wore the gray prison suit under his overcoat when sworn. He tried to dodge "squealing," but his mother held an earnest talk with him in the detention room, and he promised her he would tell all. He so stubbornly denied the truth a week ago that Judge Logan threatened to add contempt punishment to his prison term. Harrington testified today:

"We planned the holdup of Miley, the liquor dealer, in a pool room on West Broadway. That night the five of us waited until Miley locked his saloon at the corner of Dorchester and Second streets. Noonan held a gun at Miley's head, and Chambers struck him and knocked him down. He got groggy and pleaded not to be killed. Coakley took what money he had, about $20 or $30. I was posted to keep an eye on the police.

HOLD-UP GIRL AT GUN POINT

An armed bandit, who strode into the Franklin Supply Company's store on the second floor at 863 Washington street, South End, this noon and commanded Miss Florence Lawler, at the point of a loaded revlover, to throw up her hands, was foiled by the girl, who deliberately walked over to a secret push-button and rang an electric alarm gong which had recently been installed for just such an emergency.

To quote Miss Lawyer's own story later:

"The gun was so big I could see the bullets in it but when the gong rang the man just lost his nerve and ran out. We had about $700 worth of diamonds and jewelry in the safe and $100 in cash."

Miss Lawler is twenty years old and is a slip of a girl, weighing less than one hundred pounds. Her home is at No. 52 Pembroke street, South End.

Miss Lawler described the bandit to the police as a young man, about twenty or so, wearing a Balmacaan overcoat and a cap pulled well down over his eyes. This description fits that of a hold-up man who has committed some of the recent robberies.

$17,500 Damage Verdict Upheld

The full bench of the Supreme Court today affirmed the verdict of $17,050, rendered by a jury before Judge Stevens for Thomas W. Letchworth of Somerville against the Boston & Maine Railroad Company, by which the plaintiff was formerly employed as a locomotive engineer.

On the night of April 24, 1911, Letchworth, while leaving the roundhouse at the North Station, fell between some planks which had been removed for repairs. He landed in the river, the shock resulting in total blindness. Letchworth alleged that his mishap was due to negligence of the company is not properly warning its employes of an existing danger.

TORPEDO STEAMER OFF SPAIN

LONDON, April 2.—A dispatch received from Lisbon today brought the news that German submarines had extended their operations as far as the Spanish coast on the Atlantic. The dispatch stated that the British steamer South Point had been sunk by the German submarine U-28 sixty miles off Cape Finisterre. The crew of the South Point was rescued and landed at Lisbon. Earlier reports had stated the South Point was lost in a storm.

At the same time the news came that three British trawlers were attacked by the German submarine U-10 in the North Sea, Thursday, and sunk. Several men of the crews of the fishing boats are missing. The trawlers were part of a fishing fleet that put out of the Tyne yesterday morning. The other boats in the fleet escaped and put into the Tyne today.

The sinking of the South Point was considered of great significance because of the distance of the scene of the disaster from the German base of operations.

From the Scilly Islands, where the U-28 was last reported as operating, it is approximately 500 miles to Cape Finisterre, and it is at least 800 miles between

Serbs Sink Austrian Ammunition Steamer

NISH, Servia, via London, April 2.—Heavy fire from Servian artillery on the south bank of the Danube sank an Austrian steamer carrying arms and ammunition between Semlin and Pancsova, Wednesday night, it was announced here today. A Servian shell caused the steamer to explode. Fifty men of her crew perished. An Austrian aeroplane flew over Kladova, a Servian town on the Danue, Thursday. It dropped four bombs, killing three soldiers and wounding several others. Two houses were set on fire. The aeroplane escaped after the raid.

HUNDREDS OUT AFTER SALMON

WORCESTER, April 2.—The second day of the open season on salmon and trout found several hundred anglers at Lake Quinsigamond today. reported that about 200 Chinook salmon were creeled.

Brook trout fishing was neglected by the old-time fishermen, many of whom participated in the sport of fishing for salmon for the first time in this State. The lake has been stocked with salmon for several years past.

The largest string reported caught during the opening day was by George St. George and William H. Sampson, who had a creel of fifteen.

The largest creel produced by trolling was exhibited by Dr. George W. Reid, Charles E. Burnham and Philip L. Buxton. They had a string of ten.

WOMEN ROUSED BY ALIBIS IN SENATE

When Massachusetts has women for State Senators action on important bills will not be postponed on account of any imaginable alibi, today declared a number of women who had come to the State House from many sections of the Commonwealth to hear certain social welfare bills discussed and were disappointed.

Nothing was done about the probation bill because Senator Nathan A. Tufts of Waltham had a cold. Another Senator said he didn't have time to go over the milk bill. Then came Martin Hayes of Brighton, who said he hadn't had time to read a moving picture measure over carefully.

Mrs. Julius Andrews, chairman of the legislation department of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, was indignant. A lengthy correspondence had been carried on with a number of Senators and women flocked to Beacon Hill to watch the fate of the measures.

"If ever there was a time women felt they needed some sort of legislative power it was when one of the bills went over on account of a cold." declared Mrs. Andrews.

"It only shows that if you need legislation to protect the home life and want it done efficiently, you must have the vote of women. They will not turn aside from important matters because of a simple cold."

Bancroft Vindicated In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N. H., April 2.—Governor Spaulding today gave out a report made by the commission which he appointed to ascertain why Dr. Charles T. Bancroft was dismissed from the superintendency of the State Hospital for the Insane. Dr. Bancroft was discharged by the State Board of Control in December. Former Governor Felker was ex-officio chairman of the Board of Control. The report vindicates Dr. Bancroft. Dr. Charles G. Dewey of Boston was a member of the commission.

THIS EASTER YOU OWE A DEBT TO BELGIUM

"The work of Belgian Relief in New England has settled into that second stage wherein those people with real fortitude, perseverance and love of their kind show the full depth of their sentiment; the others drop away. For it is no good—no good at all—to keep these people alive until April 1st if they are to starve after that date. If we do that the whole effort has been wasted. We merely postpone a tragedy that it may become more deeply tragic. If we are to save these 7,000,000 helpless people in Belgium we must persevere to the end."—N. E. Belgian Relief Committee.

"At the risk of being considered importunate I cannot refrain from telling you that more—MUCH MORE—is needed, and if New England's hand of mercy is stayed we are faced with the calamity of a famine under conditions entailing misery such as the world has never known."—HERBERT CLARK HOOVER, Chairman Belgian Commission for Relief.

RICHARD BUCKLEY, Jr., declared he was a movie actor after his eight-foot jump from window.

"I'm Movie Actor," Child, Four, Says

NEW YORK, April 2.—"I'm a regular moving picture actor now, ain't I, mother?" exclaimed Richard Buckley, Jr., four, as he finished showing her how he climbed through a window of their home in Washington street, Hoboken, jumped more than eight feet to the ground and made his way to his grandfather's.

The lad had been in the room with his mother while she was dressing his baby sister. After a half hour she went to look for him. She could not find him. Other children playing around the front door told her they had seen him going down the street with a strange man.

BIG INCREASE IN LABOR DEMAND

The Boston branch at No. 8 Kneeland street of the State Free Employment Offices reports an encouraging outlook in the labor market. Employers' demands for unskilled male labor increased 32 per cent. in March over February. The demand for farmhands and laborers is increasing daily, with a good supply of men to fill the demand.

The call for skilled male help in March was 20 per cent. over that of February, coming principally from the metal trades.

Call for boys increased nearly 25 per cent. There is gradual improvement in mechanical lines and boys from sixteen to nineteen, with references, are readily placed.

There is steady increase in the demand for skilled female help in the sewing industries, with only small supply of experienced applicants. The supply of factory workers meets the demand.

In the unskilled women's department some slight improvement has been shown in the demand for cooks and pantry workers in restaurants and for cooks, pantry workers and cleaners in hotels.

Brewers Strike in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Three hundred employes of Washington's five breweries struck today. They demand that lay-offs in dull seasons be made in rotation. The brewers say they will use strike-breakers, but the strikers assert that experienced men are unavailable. Union men have agreed not to drink non-union products, and bartenders are urged to refuse to serve it.

NEW BANDIT HUNT; POLICEMAN GAINS

A systematic police search of the South End will be continued today in an effort to capture the bandit who twice shot Patrolman Peter J. Corcoran, who chased him from the Columbus avenue retail liquore store he had tried to rob.

Corcoran, who is being treated at the City Hospital, is believed now to have a chance to live unless blood poinsoning sets in.

Already the police net has brought in six suspects, who may be able, the police think, to assist in locating the fugitive. None of those arrested could be identified by I. K. E. Prager, the proprietor of the the wine store, or by others who believe they saw the robber.

One of the six, taken during the house-to-house raids in the Appleton street district where the fugitive was last seen, gave his name as Charles Blanchard of Detroit. He is still held on a statutory charge and will be in the Municipal Court today on a continued hearing.

Two others of the six, Frank Wellsley and Edward Barry, are also detained by the police, charged now with violations of the drug law. The other suspects were looked over by the witnesses and released.

Another hold-up attempt became known today. W. M. Drown, a Boston artist, accompanied by Mrs. Adelaide Jeaquin Littlefield of No. 1257 Commonwealth avenue, and Mrs. Evelyn Allen of No. 101 Mill street, Dorchester, was attacked in Arlington street, near Newbury. A roughly dressed man came up to Drown, demanding his money. When the man grabbed the artist by the throat, the two women drove him off with hatpins.

Sinking Falaba Caught on Film by Great Feat

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, April 2.—Some remarkable photographs were made of the steamer Falaba when she was sunk by a German submarine.

One picture shows the capsizing of a lifeboat and its passengers struggling in the sea, one of them being a woman who had just secured a grip on the keel.

Others show struggling and drowning men and women around the doomed ship.

The taking of the picture was in itself a remarkable feat, the photographer boarding the vessel with his camera, snapping photographs as he went among the passengers whom he aided to escape. At the last minute, thrusting his camera into his pocket, he dropped into the sea.

He was in the sea an hour before being rescued, clinging to a plank with another man. Hauled aboard the Eileen Emma in an unconscious condition, as soon as revived the man felt for his camera. Although the leather case had peeled off, the roll of the exposed films was dry and uninjured.

These pictures have been secured by the Boston AMERICAN.

Paper Mills Burned.

NORTHAMPTON, April 2.—The paper mills at Loudville in Easthampton, owned by Ramage Bros. of Holyoke, were destroyed by fire.

SAYS LOVE FLEW AS BRIDE HIT HIM

"How much do you weigh?" asked Attorney Aronson of Abraham Zaff of Dorchester, who was in court asking a divorce from Ethel Zaff, his bride of a year.

"About 179 pounds," replied Zaff.

"And you mean to say you let this little woman strike you with a stove cover, a carpet beater and push you around as you have described?" inquired Lawyer Aronson, pointing to Mrs. Zaff, who is much shorter than her husband and of medium build.

"Well, what could I do?" said Zaff with a shrug of the shoulders.

Bessie Zaff, twelve, daughter of Zaff by a previous marriage, said she saw her stepmother strike her father with the carpet beater and other articles.

"And what did your father do when Mrs. Zaff struck him?"

"He cried," said the little girl.

"Isn't that scar on your leg the same one you told your wife you received twenty years ago?" inquired the wife's lawyer.

"No, that scar was here," replied Mr. Zaff, striking his right breast.

Divorcee Seeks Man to 'Bounce' Former Husband from Home

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Mrs. May Cessna has advertised in Chicago papers for a "kindly and affectionate Western gentleman" to "bounce" her divorced husband, Charles Cessna, from her home at No. 5742 Commerce street.

Although she obtained a divorce decree ten years ago, she states that her former husband refuses to budge from her home, so she has adopted the unique method of getting another husband so that he will have to go.

Mrs. Cessna's Chicago advertisement states:

"Would like to meet a Western gentleman, a business man, one who could keep a wife as well as himself for a comfortable home. He must not drink. He must be agreeable, congenial and of pretty good disposition. He must not be older than fifty years. He must be clean and a neat dresser. The writer is divorced, medium sized, dark hair, attractive looking, neat dresser, has style and good taste for home as well as for personal appearance. She is a good housekeeper, is lonely and desires a reliable, refined companion with kind disposition, as I am affectionate. I have pretty good health. I am in the 40s and young for my age. I would appreciate a good husband."

MEXICANS KILL TWO AMERICANS

EL PASO, Tex., April 2.—Richard Aikin, twenty-six years old, a former baseball player in the Northwestern and Texas leagues, caused representations to be made to the State Department today that his uncle, Baron Smith, of Houston, Tex., and Roscoe Billings, employed on Smith's 50,000-acre ranch, ten miles from Mexico City, were killed by Carranza troops two months ago and the ranch property was destroyed.

Aitken had been away from the ranch, returning while the work of devastation was being completed.

He says he was seized, narrowly escaped death, was striped to his underclothing and ordered to leave the country immediately, which he did, after managing to get photographs.

He says further that he did not learn the name of the commanding officer of the Carranza forces, nor does he know the exact date of the killings, explaining that ranchmen living away from civilization often lose track of the days.

Aitken arrived at the American border in tatters, having walked most of the way from the Mexican capital, he said, avoiding various Mexican factions through whose territory he passed as much as possible.

When Carranza troops began to plunder the property, taking among other things 740 head of live stock, Smith protested, then opened fire on the Mexicans, killing several and putting the remainder to flight.

Afterward a larger band of Carransistas returned and atacked the ranch house, which had been fortified, killing Smith, Billings and three Mexican employes, after which they burned the ranch buildings.

Salamon Negri and Rafael Rereze, Syrian subjects of Turkey, were put to death at Torreon on Tuesday by Villa authorities on a charge of passing counterfeit Aguilar currency, according to a telegram received by Luis Negri, brother of Salamon. The men were merchants.

CRUISER SENT TO VERA CRUZ TO BACK DEMANDS BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The cruiser Olympia has been ordered to Vera Cruz to assist in the enforcement of the demands of the United States government that railway and telegraphic communication be kept open between Vera Cruz and Mexico City. The United States wants the capital respected as neutral territory.

Secretary Bryan undertook to bring about the neutralization of the capital and the railway lines about three weeks ago. General Villa answered that the Villa-Zapata government is anxious to do its share toward the opening of all communication. No satisfactory answer has been received from Carranza. It is realized that even should Carranza consent, the railway line has to be cleared of robber bands, but this it is felt here will be easily brought about by a sincere co-operation between Carranza and Villa. A council of prominent residents is proposed to maintain order in Mexico City.

The agency of General Villa gave out a statement which names nineteen states of Mexico as under the control of Villa.

Villa reports say General Trugilla has defeated the troops of Carranza under Colonel Jiminez and forced them to retreat to Aguila Prieta.

The agency of Carranza gave out the following telegram from him for Vera Cruz:

"Tampico has been reinforced and I am sending more troops to that city. All Yucatan is in our possession and under control, with the railroads in operation."

Hotel Men Dress as Hoboes for a Back Bay Dinner

One hundred and fifty members of the New England Branch of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association of the United States and Canada enjoyed a "hobo" dinner at the Somerset. The diners wore the worst clothes they could find. When ostensible bread sticks were broken apart a wee mouse on a wire string popped out. Small glasses of beer were topped with a layer of paraffin froth. Dishes containing two poached eggs were of the same material. Battered tin cans were passed about. When opened each was found to contain cigars.

The committee of arrangements was: Arthur L. Race, William W. Davis of Riverbank Court, Arthur W. Payne of the Beaconsfield, who also led the orchestra, and Frank C. Hall of the Somerset.

CRIMSON SCORES HARVARD UNION

The Crimson suggests that the Harvard Union saddle its taxes on the people of Cambridge as one method of economy and also has a whack at the pages employed in the Union. The Crimson says:

"The treasurer in his report has asked for suggestions that would help the Union. The Crimson ventures to offer a few. Why must the Union pay more than a thousand dollars each year in taxes? As part of the University could it not be exempted and this sum saved? Why is it possible for many men who have never joined the Union to avail themselves of its privileges?

"Why are the little boys, (employed ostensibly as pages) and the other uniformed persons so imposingly exanimate? Is their 'service' worth $3,186.40 a year? Why ca the Union have home rule? By t suggestion the Crimson means t those most active and interested the Union should control it, and those who hold office largely swell the size of their 'life', in t Senior Album."

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

RAE TANZER'S OWN STORY CONVINCES DOROTHY DIX 'ERROR' CLAIM IS TRUE

Accuser of Osborne Declared Honest in Identification Which She Afterwards Repudiated.

By DOROTHY DIX.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Woman has even been the prize conundrum of the universe, but no woman from Mother Eve down has ever had a whole community—even including the lawyers for her and against her—so completely guessing as has Miss Rae Tanzer, who has withdrawn her suit against Mr. James W. Osborne on the ground that she has been in error and that, after all, he is not the man she knew and loved as Oliver Osborne.

It is a case that bristles with interrogation points. Is little Miss Tanzer, after having made a cruel mistake in which she injured innocent people, doing the best and bravest she can to undo that wrong? Or in bringing the suit was she the tool of some one with a heavy score to pay off against the strenuous ex-District Attorney?

Why did she identify Mr. James Osborne one day as the man who had wooed and won and deserted her, and admit the next day that she had never seen him before? Is it possible for any woman who has loved a man to so forget his features in the short space of a few months as to mistake a stranger for him?

GIRL'S STORY NAIVE.

I spent an hour talking with Miss Tanzer in the office of her new lawyer, Harold Spielberg, and she told me a story so strange, so naive, as to be almost incredible except that it is so typical of the pschology of girls such as she—the pretty, poor working girl, who is always looking for the Fairy Prince to come along and marry her and take her off to live in a golden palace on Fifth avenue. Knowing that, I believed what she told me.

> OLIVER OSBORNE'S LETTERS TELL LOVE TO RAE TANZER
>
> "Dearest Sweetheart—I have been thinking of my little girl all day long, and it does seem so long since I saw you.
>
> "Every time I look out of the window and see the trees and their leaves just waving together it seems as if they were clapping their hands together for joy for you and I."
>
> * * * * *
>
> "Ray Dear—You will not have the doctor any more, will you, sweetheart? Just me and only ME, and you are the only girl I want and will be true to my doll baby. Yours, OLIVER."
>
> —From letters of Oliver Osborne to Rae Tanzer.

"I don't think there's anything more to tell," she said to me, her voice heavy and lifeless. "I have told it all to the men, but they don't believe me. They don't understand. Perhaps you will, because you are a woman and know why women do things.

"I swear to you that I honestly believed when I brought that suit that Mr. James Osborne was the Oliver Osborne I knew, and I didn't know any better until I saw him in Commissioner Houghton's room.

In the court I was scared to death. I had never been in a courtroom before. It was all frightful to me, and it seemed to me that every eye was boring a hole through me. I can only say that the reason that I didn't see that Mr. Osborne wasn't Oliver then was because I was paralyzed with fright. I couldn't think.

"Then when I knew I had made a mistake I was too frightened to speak out. I knew I should have cried out, 'This isn't the man,' but I couldn't. I didn't have the courage to own up to my mistake. I didn't know what the law would do to me. I was in a panic and it was only after I got home that I got my wits together enough to know that I mustn't let Mr. Osborne be accused of something of which he was as innocent as a babe. Then I told my brother and he spoke to Mr. Spielburg about it and I went to Mr. Spielberg's house and told him the whole story.

"Please try to understand just how it all happened. One Saturday afternoon last October I was walking across the plaza there near the park, where they are putting down the aqueduct. There were some loose boards and I was feeling as gay as a child, so I danced up and down on them and made them spring.

I saw a fine-looking man, handsomely dressed, looking at me and laughing, but I thought nothing of it, and went over in the park and sat down on a bench. Pretty soon the man came and sat down by me and began talking, and it ended up by his asking me to dinner that night.

"He went home with me and waited outside while I went in to dress. I didn't dare take him in the house, because I didn't know what to say to my sisters. They are very strict in their ideas.

FELL IN LOVE WITH OLIVER.

"That was Oliver Osborne, and I fell in love with him that first night. He was different from any of the boys I had known. He was older, and an educated man—a college man—who had read everything and had traveled everywhere. It was more entertaining to hear him talk than it was to go to the theatre. He was a man of the world, dressed in swell clothes, spent money lavishly, and knew how to do the things that women like—how to order a dinner, what to go to see at the theatres—everything that takes a girl's fancy.

"The idea of their saying he was a dishwasher," she flamed out indignantly. "I tell you, he was nothing of the kind; he was an elegant gentleman, educated, refined, and it's no wonder I loved him, and couldn't resist him."

She turned upon me the sad, wise, utterly disillusioned eyes of the girl who has known the hard side of life.

"Every working girl has plenty of temptations," she said, "but I had always been a good girl until I became infatuated with Oliver Osborne. Then I went on the fatal trip to Plainfield with him But he was always talking to me about our being married and how we would travel, and the grand home and autos we would have.

NEVER MADE DEMANDS.

"Why, he even wanted to give me fine clothes, but I wouldn't take them. I only wanted his love. That was all I put into my letters to him—just love. There's no demand for money, or for anything except love—and that's why it is so ridiculous to accuse me of trying to blackmail anybody.

"How did I come to think Oliver Osborne was James Osborne? Oliver was always talking about living at the Netherlands Hotel, and I went there one day to give him a new telephone address. I had given him a wrong one. The clerk said there was no Oliver Osborne there, and that the only Osborne he knew was James Osborne, the attorney. That was the very first time I had ever heard of James Osborne in my life.

"I still didn't hear from Oliver, and knowing that he was an athlete, I went to the New York Athletic Club to see if he was there. The manager said there was no Oliver Osborne who was a member, but that Mr. James Osborne was.

"That made me feel sure that Oliver Osborne was really James taken another name because he was so socially important he didn't want to be known by his real name when he was with an humble little working girl such as I am.

"At last, when I was growing desperate about Oliver not coming to see me, I found out that James Osborne lived at the Sherman Square Hotel, and I went there, and the taxi starter told me that he was in Providence, but that he was married and had a son. That nearly broke my heart, because I knew he could not marry me, but I loved him so well I felt that I could not give him up, whether he was married or not.

"The last time I saw Oliver was on Christmas Eve. I met him on the street and we made an appointment to meet at 8 o'clock at Columbus Circle. I went down, all the long way from my home in The Bronx, and waited near the big Christmas tree they had set up, but he never came.

"After that I was very unhappy. I had lost the man I loved. I had sinned for him, but all that I did was to write to him telling him of my love, and begging him to come back to me. Never once did I ask for money or threaten him. Then one night about a quarter past 9 the 'phone rang, and a woman's voice came over it telling me not to write to James Dsborne any more.

That made me wild with jealousy, for I still thought that Mr. Osborne was my Oliver.

This Great Exposition of Morse-Made Clothing for Spring 1915 is Without Peer, Gentlemen

Do you realize, men of Greater Boston, that in the thirty-five show windows of the big Morse Institution at Adams Square is displayed one of the most remarkable assortments of Men's Spring Apparel for 1915 in all this country? You will find in our windows—and look all the way around, if you will please—no two garments that are identical, and more different correct models and attractive fabrics than you had any idea existed.

The Morse Showing for Spring 1915 is supreme. Our windows are but one proof of an all important fact to you, namely, you will get bigger value in better style, at more moderate price at Morse's than any other store.

There is no "string" about Morse clothes; we make them and we stand by them. The Morse guarantee insures you absolute and unquestioned satisfaction.

Mayor Scores 'Hypocrites'

◆ ◆ ◆

Emphasizes Ban on Play

Mayor Saw Only Least Offensive Features, Declares the City Censor.

Mayor Curley today emphasized his ban upon the production of "The Hypocrites," a moving picture play in Boston, saying:

"The scenes included in this production are so disgusting, so sacreligeous and so obscene that I would not for a moment consider any compromise in the matter.

The Mayor only saw two scenes of the play before he became so disgusted that he quite.

John M. Casey, the City Hall censor, says what the aMyor witnessed was the least offensive part of the performance. But he stayed long enough to see a nude "wood fairy" gliding in and out among trees—and she hesitated for a moment in the foreground of the picture.

The original of this undraped character in "The Hypocrites" is Miss Edwards, and she was selected to pose because she is supposed to have a "perfect figure," according to classican art canons. That may make her measurements interesting. They are: Neck, 11½ inches; arm, 9 inches; forearm, 8¾ inches; elbow, 8¾ inches; wrist, 6 inches; chest, 31 inches; bust, 32 inches; waist, 23 inches; hips, 34 inches; thigh, 19 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle 8 inches; weight, 112 pounds; height, 5 feet 2⅛ inches. Miss Edwards is a classical dancer.

Mayor Curley has forbidden the production of "The Hypocrites" in Boston and said today:

"From present indications I am inclined to believe that the diffrent moving picture houses here will respect my wishes and not attempt to produce 'The Hypocrites.' To make sure that the pictures will not be presented, I have instructed License Clerk Casey to be on the constant watch and immediately report to me any violation of my wishes in this regard.

"Under the law I could stop the first public production of this film play, but there could never be more than one production of it in this city while I am Mayor. I am empowered to stop any immoral exhibition after the initial performance."

State Is Overruled in Suit Over Land

The full Bench of the Supreme Court today overruled the Commonwealth in the case of Elizabeth P. MacNaughton, who sued the State for $6,190 for land taken in Berkshire County for reservation purposes. The State alleged the amount sought was excessive. The full Bench has now ruled otherwise. The land involved is an 800-acre tract in Mount Washington. The tract includes Mount Everett, one of the best-known elevations in the State.

Bequests to Church and Home for Aged

The will of Mrs. Mary B. Lewis of Framingham, who died on February 17, was filed today in the Probate Court at East Cambridge. She leaves a number of bequests, including $1,000 each to the First Parish Church and the Home for Aged Men and Women, both in Framingham, and $2,000 to the Framingham Hospital.

'Gen.' Rosalie Jones to Drive Car on Stage

NEW YORK, April 2.—"General" Rosalie Janes will drive an auto upon the stage of the Palace Theatre for a week and suffragists will deliver short speeches. Among the speakers will be Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, Miss Fola La Follette, Miss Alice Carpenter and Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale.

Dreadnought Still a Power, Says Miles

"The dreadnought is still the big power on sea," said Lieutenant A. H. Miles of the United States submarine service, and commander of several notable submarines during the last five years, at a lecture in the Franklin Union. "Although I have been for years deeply interested in the submarine service, I still believe that for the big and more important work of a navy, the dreadnoughts are of first importance, and will probably always be so."

TRACEY APPEALS AND GETS HEARING

Patrolman John W. Tracey, known as the Beau Brummel of the Waltham police, who was removed from the force for the second time by Mayor Kearns on charges made by John Cosgrove of Newton and his daughter Lillian, today entered an appeal in Waltham District Court for a review of the evidence. Judge Luce ordered a hearing on April 15.

Tracey was removed by the Mayor on February 1 last, but was automatically reinstated when Judge Luce ruled that the removal was illegal for lack of sufficient notice. Tracey was immediately suspended and, after a formal hearing before the Mayor, was removed a second time. Now he is in line for the court hearing which he asked for at the time of his first removal.

HILL SEES END OF WAR BY OCTOBER

NEW YORK, April 2.—"The war will end not later than October," declares James J. Hill.

"The successes of one side or the other will not settle the fight, but the physical, financial and industrial exhaustion of the belligerents will end the war by next autumn.

"Our heavy exports to Europe will continue, with new high records. We can't kill our best customers, and if they cannot pay us with gold, we shall have to give them credit.

"There is going to be enough grain to go around this year. A good, big acreage of wheat will be planted in this country.

"The opening of the Dardanelles should release about 130,000,000 bushels of wheat to Europe. The American farmer ought to get $1 a bushel for this year's wheat crop. Next year, when the war may be expected to be over, wheat may fall to 70 cents a bushel. The very fact that the war is over will have the effect of causing some settling back of wheat prices."

DENY DIVORCE TO JESSE GRANT

CARSON CITY, Nev., April 2.—Jesse Root Grant, the third son of former President Grant, has been denied a divorce by the Supreme Court of Nevada, which refused to set aside the ruling of the lower court that the refusal of Mrs. Grant to leave her home and live with him in a hotel did not constitute "desertion."

The Grants were married in 1880. Mrs. Grant was the daughter of William S. Chapman, a well known San Francisco real estate dealer. Their daughter Nell was married a year ago to Lieutenant-Commander William Piggott Cronon, U. S. N. The couple slipped away and were married by a justice of the peace.

The Grant divorce was filed but a few days after the secret marriage of Ulysses S. Grant, eldest son of the General, who married Mrs. America Will in San Diego. Chaffee Grant, his son, has already announced his intention of contesting his father's transfer of his $4,000,000 estate on Mrs. "Will" Grant. The succession of troubles in the Grant family led to the popular theory that some Nemesis is dogging the descendants of the famous General-President.

Ten-Inch Baby Dies in Lynn

After being kept alive for five days by the constant attention of a trained nurse, Virginia Mower, the sixteen-ounce baby girl born to Mrs. Fred Mower of No. 144 Williams avenue, Lynn, is dead. The baby was but ten inches high and was fed with a medicine dropper.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good Druggists.—Advertisement.

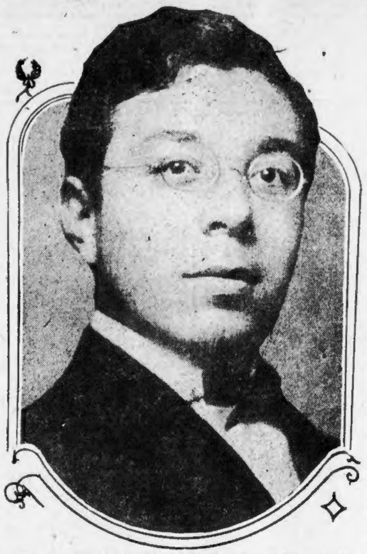
Wiener Harvard Lecturer

◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆

Prodigy Sets New Record



Dr. Norbet Wiener, Ph. D., aged twenty years, to give a course of lectures on "The Theory of Knowledge."

Youthful Dr. Norbert Wiener of Cambridge will soon establish another Harvard record, that of being the youngest lecturer enrolled on the college board. The Harvard Faculty of Arts and Sciences has just authorized the appointment of the twenty-year-old savant to give a course of lectures on "The Theory of Knowledge" during the first half of the academic year, which starts in September.

Dr. Wiener's matriculation at eleven years in Tufts College was widely commented on. At fourteen he was a Bachelor of Arts. After his eighteenth year he was awarded degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy. This is his second year as a holder of a Sheldon Traveling Fellowship and his college year was to have been spent in Cambridge College, England, but for the war.

Dr. Wiener is the son of Professor Leo Wiener of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literature at Harvard.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Wilson has confirmed the sentence of dismissal imposed by general court-martial at Naco, Ariz., upon Second Lieutenant John P. Markoe, Tenth Cavalry, who was found guilty of "having become violently drunk."

ASK TEACHERS FOR MORE PLAGUE AID

Teachers, doctors and school janitors were criticised for not waging a more earnest fight against tuberculosis during a conference of the Massachusetts Anti-Tuberculosis League at No. 3 Joy street.

Dr. Walter P. Bowers of Clinton asked for adequate reporting of white plague cases and pointed to the law which provided for a fine of $50 to $100 for neglecting that matter. He criticised the doctor who believes it unwise to tell a patient he has consumption.

Dr. Thomas F. Harrington, director of hygiene in Boston schools, said:

"The teachers should be made to see their opportunity and responsibility in this matter. Of 1,340 Boston families, in which there are 2,131 children, 1,000 children are positively suffering from tuberculosis. Five per cent. of the 99,0000 pupils in elementary grades are anaemic, glandular, or in other words physically below par, to a degree requiring preventive measures, if they are to be saved from tuberculosis."

Dr. Francis L. Dunham of Brookline said employing teachers deficient in health and janitors of political instead of intellectual vigor operate against securing proper ventilation in the schools.

Wilson Appoints Aeronautics Board

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Wilson today appointed the following as an advisory committee for aeronautics which was recently created by act of Congress: From the War Department, General George P. Scriven, chief signal officer, and Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel Reber, in charge of aviation section, signal corps; from the Navy Department, Captain Mark L. Bristol and Naval Constructor Holden C. Richardson; from the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. Charles D. Walcott; from the Weather Bureau, Charles F. Marvin, chief of the bureau; from the Bureau of Standards, Dr. George W. Stratton, chief of the bureau, and the following other appointees: Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton, Professor W. F. Durand of Leland Stanford University, Professor Michael I. Tupin of Columbia University, Professor John F. Hayford of Northwestern University and Professor Joseph S. Ames of Johns Hopkins University.

U. S. Fruit Trade Doubles in 10 Years

WASHINGTON, April 2.—American foreign trade in fruits and nuts has doubled in the last ten years, according to a report issued today by the Department of Commerce. In the calendar year of 1914 imports in this trade were $59,221,991 and exports $33,608,773. Principal imports were bananas, $16,000,000; lemons, $5,250,000; olives, $2,500,000; grapes, $1,500,000; pineapples, $1,332,000; cocoanuts, $5,250,000; walnuts, $3,500,000; almonds, $3,500,000; peanuts, $2,000,000.

VATICAN DRAWS CLOSER TO ITALY

ROME, April 2.—That a complete understanding has been reached between the Vatican and the Quirinal, and that the next few months will mark a complete change in Italy's policy toward the Holy See, has been conveyed in the official announcement that the Catholic clergy of the kingdom have been instructed to lend their sincere and hearty co-operation to the civil authorities in urging the people to face with courage and fortitude the hardships and sacrifice which a bloody and long war might impose on them in the near future.

At the same time this co-operation is taken to mean a first step toward a rapprochement between the Church and State, and a full approval on the part of Pope Benedict XV. of Italy's attitude in the present situation. Until a few days ago Italian public opinion was divided as to the attitude the Vatican would take in case events ultimately forced Italy to intervene in the war.

The Pope's efforts to secure an early peace, his diplomatic negotiations with both groups of belligerents, the sudden appointment of an English ambassador to the Vatican, all tended to prove in the eyes of the pessimists that Benedict XV. was endeavoring to secure for the Holy See a commanding place in the next peace congress. Catholic circles and a large number of Italians with Vatican connections deny any such intention on the part of the Holy See, asserting that a series of diplomatic negotiations between the Italian and Vatican state chancellories has resulted in a complete understanding between the Italian and the pontifical governments.

The most explicit, though indirect, confirmation of the changed attitude of the Vatican toward modern Italy was furnished when Monsignor Gavotti, in taking possession of the archdiocese of Genoa, delivered a speech which was regarded as most significant. For the first time in half a century a representative of the Vatican invited the flock to pray for "Our country and for all the authorities that govern it; for His Majesty King Victor Emmanuel III. and the royal family, for the military and civil authorities of the diocese."

Thanks to the Pope's patriotism, the most distressing and apparently unsoluble question of the diplomats accredited to the Vatican has been solved in a way which will insure for Pope Benedict XV. the eternal gratitude of the nation. In case of war, the Pope has offered to ask for the recall of diplomats belonging to the nations against which Italy would be compelled to march. On its part the government will permit the Vatican state chancellory to communicate with the warring nations through the neutral embassies entrusted with the protection of Italian interests.

The position in which the Vatican will find itself in case of Italy's intervention in the war was another of the difficult questions which required a solution satisfactory to both parties.

The Vatican firmly stated that it would not submit to any restriction of its freedom of communication and that any act on the part of the government to curb its liberty would be followed by strong protests to the European governments. Now, however, Catholic circles say that the order issued to the clergy to give their full support to the civil authorities and work in harmony with the government justifies the belief that foundations for the solution of the Roman question have been laid.

Neutrals to Decide Debate at Harvard

The "War" and "Peace" parties at Harvard will meet in oratorical combat at the Harvard Forum tonight. The question is: "Resolved, That this Forum approves the participation of Harvard men in Summer military camps."

Collegians opposed to war will sit on the "No" side of the hall. Those in favor of the military camps will take the "Yes" side. The neutrals will be sandwiched in the middle. After the debate the collegians will form in two groups for a vote, so the outcome will depend on which side draws the more neutrals for the count.

Jitney Bus for Worcester Towns

WEST BOYLSTON, April 2.—The transportation committee of the West Boylston Improvement Board has before it a proposition of J. D. Rayworth and L. E. Wilson of Oakdale to start a jitney bus route between Oakdale and this town. It is proposed to cut railroad fares of eighteen and twenty cents down to ten cents by jitney route.

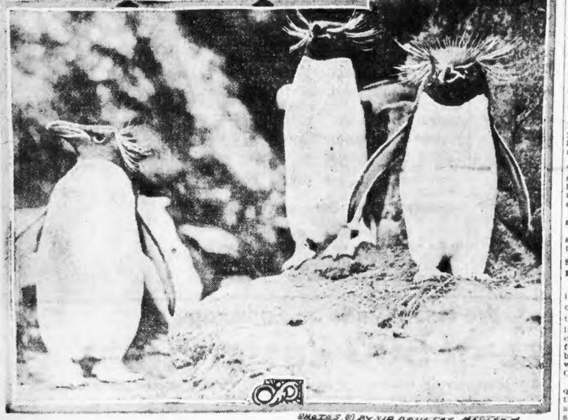
Comedians of the Antarctic

Sir Douglas Mawson Found Creatures That Outdo Man in Farce

A penguin at close quarters on an Antarctic ice floe.



PHOTOS, © BY SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON

A group of funmakers of the Southern ice-bound wastes as Sir Douglas Mawson caught them with the camera.

LET not man imagine that he alone is the purveyor of farce-comedy. No, indeed, there are animals and birds who apparently have a sense of humor all their own.

In that vast, new Antarctic Continent south of Australia, the existence of which was doubted until the recent explorations of Sir Douglas Mawson proved its reality, the queerest birds and animals in all creation thickly populate the frozen shores and live their lives in an atmosphere of continuous comedy.

Big baby-eyed seals lie lazily drifting about on ice cakes and amuse themselves by making grotesque faces; they rise up and pretend sadness as they pass a flipper before their faces; looks of mild surprise are followed by glances of indifference as their fellow inhabitants, the gigantic sea elephants, try to outdo them at funny face making.

The sea elephant, a ponderous animal, twenty-five feet long and weighing about 8,000 pounds, is also a comedian, his chief asset being a funny nose; this resembles the trunk of an elephant and with it he arouses more mirth than was every provoked by the nasal appendage of Cyrano de Bergerac.

The comic efforts are watched with deep interest and graciously encouraged by the penguins, who stand about and with their wing-like flippers appear to applaud. The penguins, by the way, are the real "headliners" in the business of laugh making. They are about three feet tall and, when walking erect, have the appearance of clumsy clowns in full dress suits. In the motion pictures secured by Sir Douglas millions of these comical creatures are seen surf bathing at their own "Atlantic City," and burlesquing fear of the waves. Along Lover's Lane they nod their heads in an all understanding manner, and their comedy lovemaking and mock gallantry outrivals the efforts of the best human fun makers.

Penguins, are even more human in their actions than monkeys and, as laugh-creators, they far surpass our supposed ancestors. They stand more erect than the monkey, and from a short distance they are very like old gentlemen, laboriously making their way over uncertain ground. While ungraceful and slow on the land, they are marvels of speed and dexterity in the water. Their swimming powers are wonderful. Unlike any other aquatic bird, they swim entirely under water and secure their food by catching fish.

The powerful locomotive force they exert in the water is shown when they land; coming from below the surface, they project themselves twenty feet into the air and alight on breast, wings and feet on the floating ice.

A Mere Trifle

Having astonished his relations and the entire village by his weird and wonderful pictures of local beauty spots, Clarence went up to London to set the Thames on fire.

After he had been in town about six months his old aunt Susan decided to pay him a visit. She arrived, and looked around his large studio with awed admiration.

"Eh, but it's a fine studio you've got, my lad! What may the rent be?"

The artist scratched his head, as a surprised look came into his eyes.

"Rent—rent? Blest if I haven't forgotten, aunt!"

Up-to-the Minute Jokes

"I strive to be modest and self-effacing," observed our friend Brocksmith. "I underrate myself, habitually. I have observed the effects of the other course. And I know that if I should ever allow myself to appreciate myself at my own true worth, I should become insufferably vain—and vanity is the worst of sins!"

"Did you live well in your boarding house?"

"Yes—I always had everything going."

"And now that you're keeping house?"

"I always have something coming."

* * *

"I ought to know what is right and proper."

"So?"

"Yes. I've three grown up daughters at home to tell me."

* * *

"I started in life without a dollar," boasted the financier.

"And how did you work it?" we asked.

"Well, I had some wealthy relatives."

"Jones says he never knew what it was to live till he was married. He says that during all his years of bachelor life he never was contented more than two months at once, but now——"

"How long has Jones been married?"

"Six weeks."

* * *

"Couple of fine girls, ain't they? One of 'em is a fine singer, and the other one can cook."

"Yes, old man. But there's a tragedy in your home. The one who sings thinks she can cook, and the one who cooks thinks she can sing!"

* * *

The Suitor—Does it break your heart to lose your daughter?

The Parent—Yes, but it would break me up in business to keep her. Take her, my boy, and be happy!

"Why, little boy, what are you crying about?"

"I don't get no April vacation."

"That's unjust. Why don't you?"

"'Cause I ain't old enough to go to school yet."

"He has invented a new drink."

"What does he call it?"

"Love."

"Why?"

"Because it makes the world go round."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get At the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A Man and His Wife

Isabel Decides to Let Duval Escort Her to Ida's Party Without John

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

ISABEL HAMILTON told herself that her husband had set the pace, and she had a right to follow it.

John Hamilton told himself that his wife had suspected him, had spied upon his actions and that, therefore, he was justified in being as deceitful as she imagined him to have been.

And as neither looked at the matter coolly and impartially, neither was conscious of being in the wrong.

Yet women of Isabel's type have led more sheltered lives than have their husbands, and it requires some strong impelling motive to make them set aside the conventionalities as mere trifles. It is one thing for a woman to determine to do as she pleases irrespective of her husband's ideas; it is quite another thing for her to carry out this determination.

So when Isabel received a note from Duval she hesitated for some hours before answering it. Duval wrote that Mrs. Ferris had kindly invited him to occupy at her table the place left vacant by Mr. Hamilton's enforced absence from the dinner. Might he not have the pleasure of acting as Mrs. Hamilton's escort? Might he not call for her and take her to Mrs. Ferris's house and bring her home at the end of the evening?

To do Isabel justice her first thought was that perhaps John might not like this plan. Then she recalled the episode of the telephone message from Adelaide Simmons. She also reflected that probably John had been with Adelaide during those night hours following the delivery of the message. She would ascertain if this was the case. At any rate, she would let Duval bring her home from Ida's dinner. Since John would not come for her, there was no other way of getting home.

But she would not tell Duval just yet that he might call for her. She would wait until tomorrow to answer his letter.

So tomorrow after breakfast she remarked abruptly to her husband:

"Pardon me for seeming inquisitive, but I have a reason for asking you one question. Did you see Mrs. Simmons that night you were out so late?"

John flushed. Was Isabel going to "start something" again? Yet he almost wished she would, for she had been so strangely silent since that night with regard to that entire occurrence.

"Yes," he said now, "I saw her with a lot of her friends. You see"——

But she stopped him. "Thank you," she said briefly, "that is all I wanted to know."

SHE DECIDES TO ACCEPT DUVAL'S INVITATION

An enigmatical remark, surely, and it left him unable to carry on the conversation. Secretly, he was afraid to. He could not know that already in her own mind the wife had decided to accept David Duval's offer for next Thursday evening. It would be much pleasanter to go in a cab with him than on the subway with Cynthia.

Afterwards, if John asked her any questions, she would answer him with the truth, exactly as he had just answered her when she asked him about Adelaide. But he had told her nothing until she had questioned him.

Neither would she tell him anything until he questioned her. Yes—what was right for him was right for her. This was her pet formula nowadays.

Men are not noted for tact, so John spoke now about a matter that suddenly came to his mind. "We must have a little dinner before long," he said.

"For Mrs. Simmons, I suppose?" Isabel suggested.

"Why, yes," he stammered, "for her and some of the people we met at her house."

"Very well," Isabel agreed. "We will have this dinner, and after that we'll have one for my friends—I mean for the Ferrises and some of the people whom I shall meet there next Thursday night."

"Perhaps we'd best go a little slow, my dear," he demurred. "We cannot afford to have many dinners, you know."

"The dinner for Ida will cost no more than the one for Adelaide," she said. "As Mrs. Simmons had us up there first, we will have her here first—then, a little later, we will have my friends."

He let this pass without protest.

"What about a competent maid?" he asked. "Have you told Cynthia she could leave?"

"I had a talk with her," she replied, "and she says, to quote her own phrase, that she 'ain't no fancy cook and waitress.'"

"Indeed, she isn't!" he exclaimed, with a laugh. "Let her go. She's getting too independent. And make your plans to secure a new maid next week—one who knows how to cook and to wait on the table decently."

"Ida Ferris told me the other day that her waitress has a friend who is an excellent houseworker—a good cook and likes waiting on the table—but she does not want to do the washing—and she does want $5 more a month than we are paying Cynthia."

"Phew!" the man whistled. He thought hard for a moment.

"Ida tells me that's what everybody has to pay if she keeps competent maids," Isabel continued. "And if you want to entertain, why, I suppose we must get rid of Cynthia. Yet, you see, that means a woman in to wash and iron every week."

HIS IDEA OF HER ECONOMY IS VEXING

"Of course it does," said John. "But if the washerwoman does most of the ironing couldn't the maid finish it?"

"Perhaps," doubtfully.

"Well," suggested John, "as we must return some of the courtesy shown us and have our friends in our home, I'll tell you how we'll arrange. I'll pay the extra $5 a month for the maid and you pay for the laundress with what you save from your housekeeping allowance."

"But, John," the wife protested, "how can I? I have to buy clothes and such things, you know."

"You always managed to look nice, yet you have saved something each week," he said. "Why, you saved enough in just a few weeks to help me out by paying the insurance last month, you know. And you also know that I am always willing to give you a little something now and then for your clothing. Surely, if you could pay the insurance as you did, you can help in such a trifle as paying the laundress for one day a week. I have great faith in your ability as a manager, my dear. So that's settled. Let Cynthia go, and get the competent maid."

(To Be Continued.)

Whom Should You Marry?

Do the Planets Decide Who Shall Be the Best Mates?

A PROFESSOR has just advanced the ingenious theory that one's birth-month affects one's temperament, and that people differ from one another according to the season of the year during which they are born. Enlarging on this belief, he claims that in choosing a marriage partner every man and woman should be greatly influenced by the birth-month of those with whom they are contemplating a journey to the altar.

Lovers having birthdays in uncongenial months, which is to say periods governed by diverse planets, will mate disastrously, but if the dates of their births occur in months which "attract," then lifelong happiness will be theirs.

Those who are thinking of entering into the bonds of matrimony would therefore, according to this theorist, be wise in studying his guide to the ideal marriages.

He says that January born should wed May born. February born should wed February born; March born should wed July born; April born should wed August born; May born should wed January born; June born should wed October born. July born shold wed March born; August born should wed April born; September born should wed March born; November born should wed March, July or September born; December born should wed August, April or December born.

The reason why marriages between people born in uncongenial months lead to unhappiness is thus explained. Each month is ruled by a certain planet, which makes or mars the characters of those born under its influence. Mercury, for instance, makes September people bad tempered whilst the planet Jupiter endows the December born with a cheerful and jovial disposition. Hence a marriage between September and December people would cause two entirely different natures to clash, and work would probably be provided for the divorce court.

Briefly speaking, the planet of Saturn has a disastrous influence on the nervous system of those born in January, and Saturnians must guard against perpetual brooding and malicious gossiping. The planet of Uranus governs the February born, who must avoid nagging, whilst Jupiter, though it tends to make those born in March noble-hearted and leaders of men, also creates in them a desire to dream away their time.

Those born in May are influenced by the planet of Venus, and they must fight against the desire to become effeminate, or lazy and extravagant. Mercury leaves its influence on the June born, whom it makes grammarians, philosophers and doctors.

The moon gives a nervous, hysterical temperament to those born in July, whilst the sun, which governs the August born, gives them a charming personality, although they are inclined to be selfish and extravagant where money and clothes are concerned.

Mercury makes those born in September inclined to be bad tempered and unreliable. Some of the greatest sirens of the world are September women.

The planet of Venus governs the month of October as it does that of May, and Mars gives physical strength and fearlessness to the November born, who are, however, inclined to unscrupulousness in affairs of the heart. December people resemble those of March, as they are influenced by the same planet—Jupiter.

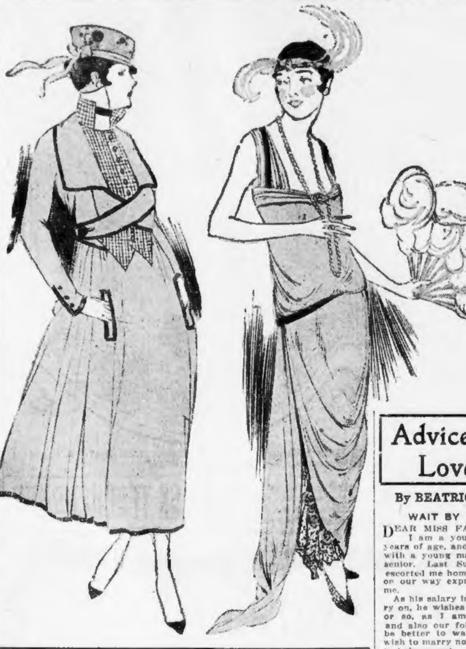
Callot and Doucet Models

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine



THERE is a masculine flavor in Doucet's blue serge models. This time it is produced by the waistcoat of check linen, a white background crossed by red and black lines. The revers and crossing strap are bound in black braid. The braid likewise binds the bottom of the skirt, outlines the pockets and finishes the long sleeves. Even the buttons are of the braid. The tail pieces of the coat are folded under in the back and held by straps.

NOTHING could be more typical of Callot than this evening frock, and that this authoritative couturiere showed at her Spring opening the becoming Grecian draperies and narrow silhouette will be welcome information to many fastidious women. Salmon satin is draped to reveal a black lace petticoat, and rose tulle, black velvet straps, and rhinestones enhance the corsage.

Why a Fat Man's Watch Gains

A WATCH is a very delicate piece of mechanism—far more so than the average watch owner realizes. For instance, the balance wheel vibrates at the rate of five beats to the second, or 18,000 to the hour.

The wonder is, then, not that watches lose or gain, but that so many keep such good time as they do.

Consider the jarring which all watches have to put up with. Their wearers run, jump, ride and take all sorts of violent exercise, and the action of the body of the wearer is bound to influence the delicate machinery of his timekeeper.

It is notorious that watches belonging to big, heavy-footed, weighty men invariably gain, while those worn by women and light-footed or quietly moving men usually keep good time.

A watch should always be wound in the morning. By so doing the spring will exert its strongest power during the day. When a watch is wound at night it has only a weakened spring to offer as resistance to the jars and jolts of the daytime.

The pocket in which you keep your watch all day averages a warmth of 77 degrees Fahrenheit. On a Winter's night the temperature of the table by your bedside will probably be from 40 to 45.

How can you possibly expect so sensitive a machine as a watch to stand a sudden drop of between 30 and 40 degrees?

Your motor car will not go without oil. Nor will your lawn mower or your sewing machine. A watch, though to some extent air-tight, also requires oil. At least once in two years you must take it to the watchmaker's for cleansing and oiling.

No watch is completely dust-proof. Particles of dust work in, they mix with the oil, and presently begin to act like emery paste, and wear out the working parts. When you consider that a watch ticks 432,000 times a day, you can compute the gigantic nature of the task which it performs in a year, and realize how necessary are regular cleanings and oilings.

The best watches of today are so made that they are proof against ordinary magnetic influences; but the average watch will be entirely upset if worn during a visit to a power station, and even the magneto of an ordinary motor car may affect its working and timekeeping.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WAIT BY ALL MEANS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of sixteen years of age, and am deeply in love with a young man three years my senior. Last Sunday evening he escorted me home from church, and on our way expressed his love for me.

As his salary is too small to marry on, he wishes me to wait a year or so, as I am yet very young, and also our folks think it would be better to wait, although if we wish to marry now, they are willing to help us out.

PERPLEXED.

WAIT by all means. Love never suffers—if it is the right kind—from a delay when the girl is as young as you. The chances of a happy marriage will be so much the greater if you wait till the man you love is able to care for you, and till you are sure as a woman should be that you love him.

CONSIDER DANGER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of eighteen and have been keeping company with a man two years my senior for the past two years. As he is a Catholic and I am a Protestant, I feel as though I do not want to turn, as my mother would surely object. But I love him dearly, and it would break my heart to give him up.

F. E. B.

A DIFFERENCE in religion may cause much unhappiness after you are married and you should consider this danger. But on the other hand, love smoothes all paths. With these things in mind, you must settle your own problem.

Don't You Care?

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

MAKE DIFFICULT STUDY A GAME

NEW YORK, April 2.—Two thousand women were turned away from a demonstration in the Cort Theatre of the methods by which Mrs. W. Sackville Stoner taught her twelve-year-old daughter Winifred to speak seven languages. An equal number of mothers and teachers crowded the theatre and listened eagerly to Mrs. Stoner. Half a dozen children from three to seven years of age were brought to the platform and by means of games were taught a sentence in Chinese, Latin and French and a song in Esperanto.

Winifred is well developed and the picture of health. It is evident that Mrs. Stoner's methods, by which Winifred has been enabled to complete a regular college course and to include many accomplishments not listed in college requirements, have not undermined her health. Mrs. Stoner declared that what she had done with Winifred any mother who has these accomplishments herself could do with any normal child.

"Winifred is not a genius," said Mrs. Stoner. "She is merely a happy little girl who has learned all she knows in an easy way. She has not been forced to cram her head with information she does not understand. She can swim, ride, play tennis, baseball and other games."

Four little girls were chosen to learn a French lullaby. Mrs. Stoner sang the lullaby softly and then the children rocked the "babies" to sleep, singing it after their leader. The location and several facts about Tasmania were taught in a few minutes by a jingle which Winifred had written.

GERMAN WARSHIP MAY AID EITEL

NORFOLK, Va., April 2.—"They may have more than us to fight," was the statement made by the first officer of the German sea raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, according to reports in circulation at Old Point Comfot today.

The officer is also quoted as saying that the German battleship Von Der Tann with a submarine on board was in the Atlantic Ocean and was endeavoring to reach this side. The submarine, he says, is one of the greatest in the German Navy. When fully stocked the undersea boat is capable of remaining away from its base for forty days.

The Von Der Tann, it was recalled, was reported as having run the gauntlet around the British Isles in an effort to join Admiral Von Spee's squadron before the battle at the Falkland Islands.

DASH BY EITEL PLANNED.

That the German officers on the Eitel have been playing a game of delay for many weeks has been suspected in American and British official circles. There have been many messages between Captain Thierichens of the Eitel and the German Ambassador at Washington, and it is presumed that the former was apprised of the presence of the Von Der Tann on the Atlantic Ocean.

It is planned, so reports say, to have the Eitel make a dash for the sea as soon as she is assured that the British and French warships off the Virginia capes will be too busy looking out for themselves to bother her. The presence of a German submarine among the seven warships off the capes would cause such fear among them, naval men say, that it would be comparatively easy for the Eitel to escape.

TAKES ON PROVISIONS.

With 300 tons of coal in her bunkers the Eitel today prepared to take on provisions. The government has agreed that she shall have sufficient stores in addition to her coal to take her to the nearest German port.

Captain Thierichens and government officials here maintained their policy of silence as to what shall be done.

The guard of soldiers and sailors furnished for the Eitel because of threats to blow up the ship, continued on duty and it was stated it will be maintained until the Eitel either interns or makes a dash for liberty. Army tents have been pitched on the Eitel's pier and a machine gun mounted while a launch from the battleship Alabama keeps watch from the sea.

Extra precautions to prevent any harm being done the German sea raider were taken today. Two hundred armed men from Fortress Monroe are guarding appoaches to the ship on land, while an armed force from the battleship Alabama which is lying at anchor in Hampton Roads is doing similar duty on the water.

The American authorities have mutually established a censorship on all photographs of the Eitel. A newspaper photographer who snapped three pictures of the German vessel, her officers and crew, was arrested by the American guard. When taken before officers his plates were seized and were thrown into Hampton Roads.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Fight 40 Days to Keep Vessel Afloat

NEW YORK, April 2.—Twenty-seven days overdue, the Italian steamer Francesco Ciampa has arrived here after a perilous voyage. Once past Gibraltar, a series of gales were encountered, and for forty days the crew fought to keep the vessel afloat. When the Ciampa passed quarantine, she had just enough coal left to bring her in.

INOCULATION IS FREE AT HARVARD

"Drop in any time and get inoculated against contagious disease for nothing," says "Doc" Lee to his Harvard collegians.

Dr. Roger I. Lee is Harvard professor of hygiene. He gives notice in the Crimson that he will hold inoculation parties in his office in Weld Hall daily. He urges this preventive measure. He appeals to the sporting instincts of the students by citing the baseball manager who made his players take it.

Regarding what happens after the virus is administered, the Doc writes:

"The preventive inoculations are three in number, coming at intervals of seven to ten days, and are practically painless. Occasionally within twenty-four to forty-eight hours after inoculation there is some disturbance of a mild nature."

Many of the students are wondering just what "Doc" Lee understands by a "mild disturbance."

Harvard to Aid Radcliffe in Giving a One-Act Opera

The Radcliffe Choral Society, assisted by members of the Harvard Glee Club, will present "The May Queen," a one-act opera by Gluck, as its annual performance. The first presentation will be on Friday evening, April 9, followed by a performance Saturday afternoon and evening.

The leading parts are to be taken by Sybil Bingham '16, as Helene; Amy Browne '16, as Philint; Vianna Knowlton, '17, as Lizzette; Winfield Loope, Harvard '18, as Damar, Marquis of Marsounier, and Vernon Vallet, Harvard '18, as Richard, a farmer. Mrs. Virginia Tanner Green is coaching the dancing.

Ware County Couple Marry in Lion's Den

WAYCROSS, Ga., April 2.—More than [illegible] citizens witnessed the marriage of Miss Kate Smith and William Johnson of Ware County in a den of lions, Mayor Scott T. Beaton performing the ceremony. The lions are the property of a showman who is exhibiting here, and the marriage ceremony performed in their midst is the first of its kind known in this section. A $50 purse was presented the couple by the owner of the lions after the ceremony.

Stricken Beauty Roams in Nightgown

NEW YORK, April 2.—Clad only in a nightgown and black silk stockings, a strikingly handsome girl, apparently about sixteen years old, was found wandering in Fifth avenue early today. Although wide awake she was unable to talk. The only clew to her identity was a signet ring with the initials "L. E. C." She was taken to Bellevue Hospital in the belief that she was an aphasia victim.

$350,000,000 in Year, British Income Tax

LONDON, April 2.—The British Treasury's financial statement for the last year just issued shows record increases in many departments of revenue, notably the income tax. This yielded a total of nearly 70,000,000 pounds sterling, an increase of 23,000,000 pounds over last year.

This source of revenue will give even better results when the new war scale comes into full operation, so far the income taxpayers are paying only one-third of the increase.

UNSIGHTLY ECZEMA ON CHILD'S FACE

Seemed to Spread. Burning and Itching Made Her Cross. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Baby's Face Clear and Fair.

Melrose Farms East Weare, N. H.—"My child's eczema began with small watery eruptions near the ear. Then the whole of her face was covered. It seemed to spread. Water came from each eruption and made a new one. It then formed blisters, then hard dry crusts. Her face was so unsightly that I was ashamed to take her anywhere. The burning and itching made her cross and she would cry for a long while at times. She was fussy when she slept. She seemed to lose flesh every day and had no appetite.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment were recommended to me. I would wash her face with Cuticura Soap just before she had her nap in the daytime and just before she went to bed at night, and then I applied the Cuticura Ointment. In less than two weeks my baby's face was clear and fair." (Signed) Mrs. C. H. Baldwin, Sept. 2, 1914.

In Cuticura Soap you have three soaps in one at one price: A super-creamy skin soap, a soothing and softening complexion soap, a fragrant toilet and nursery soap.

Sample Each Free by Mail

Burglar Wounded by Policeman Dying at Charles Street Jail

James, alias "Fat," Glennon, twenty-two, of No. 86 Marcella street, Roxbury, the burglar who was shot by Patrolman Andrew Hurley of the Brighton station on the night of March 8, is dying at the Charles street jail, according to Dr. [illegible], the jail physician.

Glennon was brought to the jail several days ago from St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he was taken after he had been shot. Patrolman Hurley [illegible] that Glennon and a companion were burglarizing a house at No. 17 Harvard avenue, Allston. When he entered the building, Hurley was attacked by the man and beaten with his own club. He pulled his revolver and shot Glennon, but his companion escaped.

Glennon's mother has been notified of his condition and is a great source to the dying youth, who, after he was injured, refused at first to divulge his identity, out of respect for his mother.

DANCERS EXPOSED TO CHICKENPOX

Because twelve Volkmann school boys danced the other night with a girl who was later found to have chickenpox, the Easter recess of the Newbury street preparatory school began a day ahead of time.

There has been no case of chickenpox among the boys of the school, [illegible] had to [illegible] the twelve [illegible] had been exposed to it, Principal Arthur L. K. Volkmann thought it best to declare the recess hurriedly as a precautionary measure.

The dance was a private affair, [illegible] and the girl who unwittingly gave the Volkmann boys an extra [illegible] away from school is prominent socially in that section of Brookline.

MORE ABOUT

STANDARD Brands

N. Sallinger Strongly Advises And Tells You Why

I STRONGLY advise buying only standard brands of men's clothing because every modern "up-to-date" business man knows that they are made by the best known makers in the country—are of standard value—can be depended upon to give absolute satisfaction in material, workmanship and style—brands that have been standardized because of their uniform, dependable character and values. The manufacturers of standard brands of high grade men's clothing spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year designing, making and advertising their clothing, proving its value and desirability and establishing a material and artistic standard. I recognized the fact that I could not build up a big and mutually satisfactory credit business with the men of this city unless I placed my clothing department upon a high and dignified plane, giving the men of Greater Boston the Best Standard Brands of Men's Clothing at the regular cash prices—charging not one cent more than is charged by the best clothing stores (according to my agreement with the manufacturers). By handling only the brands recognized by the clothing world as STANDARD I have succeeded in developing the biggest credit men's clothing business in New England. Read the list of Standard Brands in this announcement—you will immediately recognize them and their makers as being leaders in the clothing world.

LIVE WIRE SHOCKS FOUR FIREMEN

Four firemen were knocked down a flight of stairs by an electric shock and one of them was carried out unconscious during a fire in the business block at Moody and Crescent streets, Waltham.

A general alarm was sounded for the blaze, which started in the rooms of the Carpenters' Union on the top floor and spread to the Camera Club, driving several members to the street.

It then burned its way to the second floor, where it destroyed a storeroom and the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Neale.

The first four firemen to enter the building, Lawrence Downing, Frank King, Bertram Neal and William Downs, all hosemen attached to Engine 2, suffered from electrical shocks. Downs was taken from the building unconscious.

ELIOT HIT IN BOOK BY MUNSTERBERG

President Emeritus Eliot is described as "the brave leader of the [illegible] party" by Professor Munsterberg of Harvard in his new book, "The Peace and America," out today.

He charges Great Britain with employing every subterfuge to embitter this country against Germany, especially in the matter of Belgium. [illegible] the defense at least declaring there never was a treaty existent between the two countries, asserting it had been nullified by treachery.

"It is not the duty and not even the right of any people in the world to commit suicide at the command of its neighbors," he writes, defending Germany's invasion of Belgium. He also cites Belgium's rule of the Congo.

The war is Germany's [illegible] of making European nations safe one against the other for England's glory, Professor Munsterberg declares.

The professor gives a chapter of intimate description of the Kaiser. He pictures him as the "Lord of Peace," and compares him with Theodore Roosevelt, with all the finer shades of comparison in favor of the Kaiser.

He declares the United States has disregarded her historic mission as peacemaker. President Wilson he lauds, but not the people of the United States.

Professor Munsterberg takes the stand that America is only keeping up the war through its sales of supplies and munitions of war. He writes:

"From a thousand American pulpits at the beginning of the war the accusations resounded that the Krupps and the Creuzots and the gunmakers all over Europe were the true secret springs of this world controversy, and now we must see America the great centre of the supply.

"The one nation which stands outside the fight so that no patriotism excuses the eagerness to furnish the deadly weapons is drawn by the commercial lure into the very midst of the horrors."

GREY SUGGESTS PLAN FOR GOVERNMENT TO SEIZE SALOONS IN BRITAIN'S WAR ON LIQUOR

All Britain Rallies to Aid Move to Put Nation on the Water Wagon.

[illegible] because of the [illegible] among the [illegible] who were at the front [illegible] were made by the [illegible] question was held in [illegible] temporarily [illegible]. The [illegible] in the pro- [illegible] made a letter by Earl Grey to the Times urging the seizure of saloons.

The Cabinet has also followed the King's example in offering to put a ban on liquor in his own household "if it is thought necessary."

Earl Brassey, Baron Cowdray, Baron Sydenham, Sir Charles W. Macara, chairman of the committee of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association, and the heads of [illegible] manufacturing firms also stand ready to make personal abstinence pledges.

BREWERS IN ALARM.

Earl Grey would have the government take over all licensed houses [illegible] just as [illegible] [illegible] the fair [illegible]. The saloons would be closed altogether or administered on reformed principles.

Earl Grey's suggestion, following closely on heels of King George's offer, and Earl Kitchener's and Lloyd-George's outspoken advocacy of temperance, have today caused real alarm among the brewers of England.

A circular [illegible] Brewers' [illegible] Association [illegible] show [illegible] of less than [illegible] [illegible] work people are employed in supplying to brewers and distillers the materials and plant used in the production and distribution of their products.

CANADA IN LINE.

"If our workers are deprived of what is actually to [illegible] [illegible] a greater [illegible] question for government to devise means of bringing home to the workers engaged in the manufacture of the munitions of war, their responsibilities to the nation and their co-workers in the trenches."

[illegible] tion to bar liquors from the royal palaces, the Clyde shipyard workers have, as a body, refrained from entering the Glasgow public houses.

"The King's offer has impressed the people with the gravity of the situation more than any appeal yet made."

Canada also supports the movement. Dispatches from St. John [illegible] Premier Clarke of New Brunswick as saying that his government [illegible] considering the prohibition of [illegible] of alcohol in the province of New Brunswick during the war. Premier Murray of Nova Scotia has assured a temperance delegation which asked that an advanced step towards prohibition be taken that his government had the matter under consideration.

Saskatchewan has already abolished the bar for the duration of the war. Manitoba and Ontario have initiated restrictive legislation in regard to the sale of liquor.

The London newspapers which for the most part are agreeing unanimously that drastic steps must be taken, today gave prominent display to an official statement from Petrograd reporting a remarkable increase in the deposits in Russian savings banks since the government placed the ban on vodka.

AUSTRIAN PEACE PLANS HINTED

LONDON, April 2.—News of the departure from London of Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Minister, upon the eve of the presentation of the American protest against the order in Council blockading the German ports, caused intense surprise here today.

Although the [illegible] Edward's departure spoke [illegible] absence [illegible] [illegible] it [illegible] authority that he is going to Paris where he will hold a conference with the French Foreign Minister, Theophile Delcasse, and the Russian Ambassador, A. P. Ivolsky, over important and unexpected developments which have just arisen. In this connection significance can be attached to Petrograd dispatches which [illegible] that Austria is on the point of suing Russia for peace.

Friends of the foreign minister declare that only illness of affairs of the utmost moment outside of England could drag Sir Edward away from Downing street at this critical juncture in British history.

Another report in circulation was that a conference of various ambassadors would be held in Paris when the near-eastern question and the future status of Constantinople would be discussed.

As a result of the departure of Sir Edward there cannot be any reply to the American protest for at least a month, as the foreign minister will probably be away for about three weeks.

During the absence of Sir Edward Premier Asquith will conduct the routine affairs of the Foreign Office but it will require the presence of the foreign minister before a formal answer to the American note can be drafted. In fact it may be well into May before even a preliminary reply is sent.

PETROGRAD PRESS BELIEVES AUSTRIA IS SEEKING PEACE

PETROGRAD, April 2.—While reports that Austria had made approaches to Russia for peace were wholly unconfirmed in official circles today, they were accepted as true by the Petrograd newspapers, all of which devoted considerable space to theorizing upon the probable terms.

No element of confirmation was obtainable from any source, and impartial observers were inclined to accept the rumors with considerable reserve.

The Russ [illegible] was the first to [illegible] that Austria would [illegible] after the fall of [illegible] [illegible] Austria [illegible] advances to Russia were made through neutral channels without the knowledge of Germany. It says that Austria's action was hastened by the capture of Przemysl and the Russian successes in the Carpathians.

The Russky Slovo states that Austria made her first overtures through Swiss agencies. Other newspapers hint that they came through the American embassy, but it was stated there today that nothing was known of the matter.

All the press reports agree that Austria expressed a willingness to yield a large part of her territory and that Russia replied that the terms of proffered peace must be made known in London and Paris before receiving any consideration from the Czar's government.

Confusing reports as to the actual military situation in the Carpathians have the war experts of Petrograd "guessing." A week ago the War Office announced that the main Austrian positions at Lupko Pass were being attacked successfully by the Russian troops. Today's latest reports from the front state that a severe battle is in progress at Palgrod, twelve miles northeast of Lupkow.

A dispatch from Tarnopol states that the Austrian campaign in Bessarabia has come to an inglorious end, the troops advancing toward Chotin having been routed and driven in flight across the frontier into Bukowina.

Lemberg dispatches are to the effect that the Austrian forces in Bukovina are being withdrawn and sent to the Carpathian front at Uszok Pass and the Beskid Heights where they are badly needed.

The Lemberg dispatches state also that Cracow has been prepared for a siege of two years, and that the garrison has been warned by its commanders that it must fight until the last.

NEW AIR ATTACK ON GERMAN AVIATION DEPOT AT HANDZAEME

PARIS, April 2.—Having failed in their attempt on Wednesday to destroy the German aviation station at Handzaeme, Flanders, Belgian airmen, reinforced by members of the French flying corps, made a second attack upon the post Thursday.

Whether the second attack was any more successful than the first is not revealed by this afternoon's official communique from the War Office. The communique reports the destruction of several German trenches south of Peroinne and the check of an attempted German attack in the Argonne. The communique says:

"To the south of Peroinne, near Dompierre, we destroyed with a mine several German trenches.

In the Argonne, at Bagatelle an attempted German attack was sharply checked.

"French and Belgian aviators yesterday threw thirty bombs upon the aviation field at Handzaeme."

DEMAND FOR PEACE IN AUSTRIA LEADS TO VIENNA RIOTING

ROME, April 2.—Advices received here from the Austrian frontier describe the internal situation in the dual monarchy as increasingly grave. Opposition to a continuance of the war is said to be growing stronger and violent anti-war demonstrations are reported to have occurred in several cities. In Vienna a crowd attempted to stone the windows of the War Office, but was charged by the police and troops, several persons being wounded and many others arrested.

Germany Lets Down Wheat Restrictions

LONDON, April 2.—Some of the restrictions against the use of wheat and flour in Germany for making bread and pastry have been removed, says a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam. This step has been taken because of the increased consumption of rye bread, which resulted in an undue proportion of that grain being used rather than wheat.

"Rule Britannia" to Cheer Russians

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 2.—Hundreds of persons on the dock sang "Rule Britannia," when six hundred Russian reservists sailed from here today for Vladivostock.

SWOBODA "SPY" CHARGES WEAKEN

HAVRE, France, April 2.—Sudden and startling developments today indicated a complete collapse of the government's charge that Raymond Swoboda attempted to blow up the French liner La Touraine.

His examination was again postponed twenty-four hours and when he is arraigned it is probable that the prosecution will attempt only to show that he is a German and not an American citizen.

Evidence that he was responsible for the fire on the La Touraine may never be presented. This is due, it is said, to the fact that the government commission which examined La Touraine has altered its opinion that the fire aboard the liner was caused by an explosion, and now believes it was due to the mysterious ignition of three bales of cloth.

Experiments tend to show that the fire could not have been caused by spontaneous combustion and chemists are making an examination of the charred cloth in an effort to find a trace of inflammable liquid or celluloid.

FRIENDS RALLY TO SWOBODA'S DEFENCE; RIDICULE CHARGES

PARIS, April 2.—While attaches of the U. S. embassy were engaged today in verifying the nationality of Raymond Swoboda who was arrested on the charge of trying to blow up the French liner La Touraine at sea, friends of the accused man rallied to his assistance, declaring his innocence.

One of the staunchest supporters of Swoboda is M. Treseat, a stockbroker and business associate of the prisoner.

"Men connected with the Stock Exchange who know M. Swoboda are surprised at his arrest," said M. Treseat. "He was known to be well off, and had numerous French customers, whose money he invested for them. He spoke German well, because he had spent two years as a student at Heidelberg University. It is probable that the photograph showing him in a German uniform, which the police claim to have found, was taken while he was in school at Heidelberg.

"M. Swoboda has an uncle who is an architect in Vancouver, B. C. The plans which the police declare they seized in M. Swoboda's baggage may belong to this uncle, whom my friend visited recently."

When M. Swoboda arrived in Paris he was supplied with a passport by the American embassy when he submitted the usual identification papers.

According to the Matin, Swoboda was arrested last August at Viroflay near Versailles while wandering near the military works at night. He presented his American passport and protested so emphatically against detention that he was released.

While living at Viroflay it is alleged, Swoboda was very friendly with an Austrian neighbor and paid mysterious midnight visits to the villa of this Austrian resident.

ACTIONS AROUSE SUSPICION.

According to other residents of Viroflay, Swoboda excited their suspicions by his mysterious actions when visiting the Austrian's home. He would peep up and down the road as if to make sure that no one saw him enter.

The police have built up a romantic story about Swoboda's residence in Viroflay. Toward the end of November it is said Swoboda entered his own Viroflay villa disguised as a bricklayer.

In January the Austrian was arrested and sent to a detention camp, Swoboda having left a few days previously for New York. Before leaving Swoboda further aroused suspicion by burning a large quantity of papers in the garden of his villa, making sure that every vestige was destroyed and the ashes scattered to the wind.

Five trunks deposited by Swoboda with a Paris insurance company have been seized by the police and searched. The contents were found to be mostly samples of cloth, woolen gloves, socks, specimens of leather, metals, preserved meats, picks, shovels, boots and new French uniforms.

STIR ON SENDING PEIRCE TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Interest has been aroused [illegible] Secretary Bryan [illegible] H. H. D. Peirce [illegible] Assistant Secretary of State [illegible] to Ambassador Marye at Petrograd, Russia. A committee of the House of Representatives [illegible] found Mr. Peirce guilty of [illegible] in conducting and [illegible] the Russian government [illegible] in behalf of [illegible] members of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Commerce and Labor [illegible] submitted January [illegible] signed by Representatives [illegible] of Vermont, Young [illegible] Mr. Peirce [illegible] described in the following portion of the report.

FINDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

Your committee further finds that Isaac Liebes, president of the said North American Commercial Company, did correspond, combine and agree with one H. H. D. Peirce, then Third Assistant Secretary of State of the United States, and Charles H. Townsend, "seal expert" of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, to promote [illegible] promoting and collecting [illegible] claim as the owner of the James Hamilton Lewis, the sailing vessel owned and outfitted by said Isaac Liebes and Hermann Liebes and Captain Alexander McLean, before said Bering Sea [illegible].

"Peirce and Townsend as representatives of the government presented the claim of McLean, the master of the James Hamilton Lewis, which was fraudulently registered at San Francisco on the 11th of January, 1890.

"In 1890 the James Hamilton Lewis, commanded by McLean, was caught by a Russian vessel and under the claim that the crew, headed by McLean, had raided the seal islands belonging to Russia, disputes arose as to whether the Russian government had a right to seize the schooner and its crew. Damages were claimed by the owners of the vessel as well as the master and crew thereof.

"In 1893 proceedings were commenced in the State Department. H. H. D. Peirce and Charles H. Townsend presented the claim on the part of the United States against the Russian government at the Hague, in 1902, which resulted in an award of approximately $50,000 in favor of the United States government for the use of the parties interested, including Alexander McLean and Max Weisman, November 29, 1902."

BRYAN IS ABSENT.

In its conclusions the committee recommended, "That the State Department take up with Russia the case for the purpose of rectifying the wrong done by said Liebes, C. H. Townsend and H. H. D. Peirce against the government of Russia, a friendly power."

Secretary Bryan was absent from Washington and could not be interviewed. Acting Secretary of State Lansing said:

"The report was based on charges made by Henry W. Elliot, who has from time to time made charges against many public officials. They have not been taken seriously. Nothing was done about the charges against Mr. Peirce."

Suggest Britain Seize Coal Output

LONDON, April 2.—The committee appointed by the Board of Trade to inquire into the causes for the rise in the retail prices of coal for domestic use recommends in its report that, if the prices do not return soon to a reasonable level, the government will consider a plan for assuming control of the output of the collieries during the continuance of the war.

MORE SHIPS SUNK BY SUBMARINES

Finisterre and Zeebrugge, the German base in Belgium.

Naval experts in London declared today that if the advices from Lisbon were correct the capability of the German submarines had been underestimated. Cape Finisterre is the extreme northwestern point of land in Spain.

Eleven members of her crew, says the dispatch, were landed at the Hook of Holland today by a Norwegian steamer.

The German submarines are sinking ships at the rate of one a day. [illegible] the French steamer Anna on Wednesday and the British steamer Seven Seas on Thursday, with a total loss of [illegible] lives.

The Seven Seas, of [illegible] tons, was torpedoed without warning off Beachy Head. Eleven of her crew of [illegible] were drowned. The steamer was bound from London to Liverpool.

Such was the force of the explosion that the hatches were blown off and a big hole torn in the steamer's side, causing her to sink within [illegible] minutes.

The survivors, three of whom were injured, were landed at New Haven by a destroyer.

The management of the West Indian mail service at Amsterdam, today denied reports that its ships had been supplying German submarines in the English Channel. The release of the steamer Lodowijk Van Nassau by the British after an examination was taken here as a direct refutation of charges that the Dutch have been aiding the Germans.

Tribute to Bismarck in the Reichstag

BERLIN, April 2.—Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, who spoke at the Bismarck centenary celebration in the Reichstag, said:

"What Bismarck created no German will allow to be destroyed. Our enemies are raging around the empire, but we will beat them. He taught us to fear only God, to wage war against the enemy and to believe in our people. Thus we will fight and conquer and live for the emperor and the empire."

SOX WILL RELEASE GILL AND SHORTEN

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 2.—The Red Sox say [illegible] to Hot Springs [illegible] Cold Springs") today. There will be no practice. The boys spent the early morning hours packing up and everything was quickly made to put aboard the 1 o'clock train for Memphis. The squad and camp followers will arrive in Memphis shortly after 7 o'clock tonight. There they play three exhibition games tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

The Sunday game ought to draw a good sized crowd if the weather is pleasant as the Red Sox have not performed there for several years and the boys used to be prime favorites with the Tennesseans.

Uncle Bill Carrigan has come to a tentative understanding with Manager [illegible] of the Providence team, whereby the Grays will get two of the Red Sox players now and the promise of three or four more by the time the International League season opens late in April.

Gill Should Be Valuable Man for Providence.

The players to be turned over at once are Outfielder Charlie Shorten, who played on Worcester last year and Infielder Robert Gill, who played with Battle Creek last year. The transfer of these two men has been discounted in these despatches for many days.

Gill has been playing third base for the second team down here. It is the first time he ever played the position, as second baseman has been his stronghold heretofore. Gill looked crude on third base when practice first started, but he has improved wonderfully and promises to be a very valuable man for the Grays. Doubtless, he will improve in his hitting too. He is a husky, splendidly built man and a hard worker. Shorten fell just below Tutwiler, with whom he was having a race as utility outfielder. A season at Providence ought to be just the right kind of experience for him.

Carrigan has promised to turn a pitcher, a catcher and an outfielder to Providence later on. The pitcher will either be Scott, or Comstock and the outfielder either Tutwiler, Rehg or Henriksen.

Tutwiler Looks Best of Utility Outfielders.

Tutwiler is a fine finished fielder and looks better than Rehg in practice. Henriksen's weak arm prevents him from ever earning a regular berth on the Red Sox and it is doubtful if he would be of much use to any team with his wing in the condition it is now. The popular little fellow doubtless realizes this fact.

It was a merry party that loafed around the hotel lobby this morning waiting for the word to move toward the depot. All hands are glad to get away from here. The best training camp in the world grows stale after a certain period. The athletes yearn for pastures new.

The Red Sox party numbers more than sixty persons and doubtless the hotel will look as deserted as a last year's birds' nest when Carrigan and his followers take the train today.

Tom Hughes New Braves' Star To Join Big Pitching Trio

By JACK CONWAY.

MACON, April 2.—With the opening of the National League pennant fight less than two weeks away, Tom Hughes looms up as one of the Braves' star hurlers. Hughes joined the champions late in the 1914 pennant campaign and won the only game he pitched.

Hughes has pitched high class baseball here in the South and just now it looks as though he would do the honors in the box for the Braves in one of the early games of the league season. Tom is in splendid condition as he has been working out since the first of February when he took charge of the Georgia Military College baseball nine at Milledgeville, Ga.

Tom cannot be called a youngster as he has been playing with strong clubs for the past eight years. He was with the New York Yankees for a couple of seasons, but was sent back to the minors on account of trouble with his arm. Hughes' arm has come around all right, as he proved by his slashing work in the International League last year.

Ball Players Are Very Sensitive About Ages.

Ball players are as sensitive about their ages as are some of our dear old prima donnas, but Tom admits he is twenty-eight years of age when hard pressed. During his career on the diamond, he has gained a wealth of experience and seems to be one of the men to give a helping hand to Rudolph, James and Tyler, the Braves star flingers.

Tom displayed his skill in the exhibition game against the Cleveland Association team here yesterday which the Braves won by the respectable score of 6 to 0. He did the honors on the mound for four sessions and only allowed one hit.

This safe smash was made in the ninth frame with two out. Tom eased up a bit, tossed up a slow ball which a young man by the name of Southworth, who is one sweet ball player, pasted to deep right centre for three bases. There was no damage done as Hughes fanned the next batter.

Believes Hughes Has Solved Mound Problem.

Stallings realizes that he must have one or two more reliable pitchers if his team is to repeat its great feat of 1914. The "Miracle Man" is of the opinion that Hughes has solved part of the problem.

Tom conducts himself on the field like a veteran of a dozen world's series battles. He always takes his time and never gets rattled when there are men on the bases.

It is beginning to look as though Rudolph, James, Tyler, Hughes and Davis would complete the Braves first division or hurlers. Paul Strand looks very good and should start a number of games during the coming season. The rest of the youngsters have also shown remarkably well in their workouts here in Dixie.

Dick Rudolph gave his mighty pitching arm a severe test yesterday. He pitched the first five innings of the game against Cleveland. The "Little Master" was there with bells on. He was touched up for only two hits and was never in danger of being scored upon.

From where we give the baseball situation the up and down it looks as though Rudolph would be Stallings' one best bet in the opening game of the season against the Phillies on April 14.

Yesterday's game was a slow and uninteresting affair. The Braves won, but it was not on account of their heavy batting, as their safe blows consisted of a double by Moran, and a sizzling single by Fitzpatrick.

The visiting pitchers, however, were very wild and were liberal with free transportation to first. "Dutch" Kahler, formerly of the Cleveland Naps, was the worst offender and only got a few balls over the plate while he was on the hill.

Fitzpatrick played second base for the Braves in the absence of Johnny Evers, who was forced to remain at the hotel on account of a cold.

Fitzpatrick Performs Splendidly at Second.

The "Keystone King" does not wish to take any chances of being put out of the game for a long period and therefore is very careful of his health. Johnny contracted his cold in Wednesday's game. Wednesday was cold and raw and several of the players complained of colds after the tussle.

Fitzpatrick played a splendid game. He took care of all balls hit in his direction to the Queen's taste. While he got one of the Braves' hits, he reached first on another occasion by the base on balls route.

Bill James has a new way of getting his mighty pitching arm into condition. He does this by using a baseball which is filled with pieces of lead and iron. It is the same size as the ordinary baseball but of course much heavier.

The Coast youth uses the ball to get the muscles of his pitching arm working properly. He does not throw the heavy ball but hurls it around in the air as one would an Indian club.

The big fellow had a little amusement with his new invention at the expense of one of the war correspondents the other day. The honorable scribe was of the opinion that Bill had an ordinary baseball in his hand.

Team Starts Homeward Journey Tomorrow.

"Throw the ball and quit posing like the Statue of Liberty," chirped the scribbler.

"All right," shot back Bill. "Let us have a game of catch."

With this remark, James tossed the heavy ball to the war correspondent, who posed gracefully as the sphere approached him. The ball struck the reporter's hands and crashed through them and landed on one of his feet. There was a crash and the dear old scribe thought that he had been hit by a shell from a 42-centimetre gun.

"What's the matter? You don't need a glove to catch easy pitching, do you?" remarked James, as he doubled up laughing. "That's only my slow one," he continued. "Stay there and I will throw you a couple of fast balls."

The Braves engage in their last practice here today.

MARATHON RULE IS TURNED DOWN

NEW YORK, April 2.—With one exception, the amended general and athletic rules prepared by a special committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union last November have been approved by the A. A. U. board of governors.

A mail vote was taken on the adoption of the rules, and Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the organization, announced that the vote registered approval of all the rules submitted, except the Marathon race rule.

More than two-thirds of the Board of Governors voted against this rule, which provided that any competitor receiving coaching assistance or refreshments of any kind during the race should be disqualified. The rule also forbade the practice of providing attendants for the Marathon runners.

E. E. Babb led the local fight for the abolition of the proposed Marathon rule. Boston was strongly opposed to it, and now that it has been "killed" competitors in the B. A. A. race on Patriots' Day will receive their usual aid.

Ouimet at Heels of Pinehurst Leader

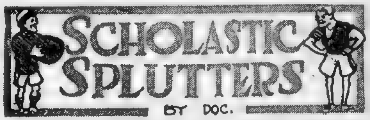
PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—F. K. Robeson, a New York school student, maintained the lead gained in the first qualifying round of the fifteenth annual United North and South amateur golf championship, finishing at the head of the field with 155. Francis Ouimet, national amateur champion; Walter J. Travis of Garden City, L. I., and Jesse Guilford of Intervale, N. H., tied for second place with 156. Phil Carter of Nassau, L. I., and Irving S. Robeson of Rochester made 156 each for third.

Nickalls Expects Good Race by Yale

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 2.—While he does not consider the Yale crews finished oarsmen now, Guy Nickalls, their coach, believes they should be able to give quite a good account of themselves when they race Pennsylvania at Philadelphia tomorrow. The average weight of the first varsity eight is given as 176 pounds, and that of the second eight as 174 pounds.

Federals Wipe Out Conflicting Dates

CHICAGO, April 2.—The Federal League schedule makers have succeeded in wiping out fifty of the conflicts with teams of Organized Baseball. The schedule provides for a 154-game campaign, beginning April 10, and closing October 3. No Sunday games either at home or abroad are provided for Brooklyn, but seventeen are to be played in Chicago and sixteen in St. Louis and Newark each.



SCHOLASTIC SPLUTTERS

BY DOC.

Franz Nicholls, who stroked for Brookline High in 1909, afterwards rowing on Cornell's junior varsity eight, has offered his services to Coach Manning and will immediately start to instruct the Brookline oarsmen. Manning has the burden of sixteen crews and the assistance of Nicholls will be a great relief for him.

* * *

The rough water of the past few days, combined with chilly winds, caused most of the school crews to abandon their rowing. Now that some fine weather has come along the B. A. A. boathouse and the Union boathouse have become scenes of sudden activity. A number of crews took long spins yesterday and although a little stiff muscularly, put lots of vim into their work.

* * *

Edward Knott and Robert Lane shifted seats in the Roxbury Latin first four, the former going to 3 and the latter to bow. Captain Howard remained at stroke with George Noyes at 2. George Reid handled the tiller.

* * *

In the Stone school eight, Swallow was shifted from No. 7 to No. 5, and Sheerin was placed at No. 7 by Coach Smith. The order of the Stone crew at present is: captain Shepard, stroke, Sheerin, 7, Kidder, 6; Swallow, 5, R. Emmons, 4, Sands, 3; M. Emmons, 2, Walker, bow. Mitchell and Warriner are the candidates for coxswain.

* * *

Arthur Stevens, coach of the Browne and Nichols oarsmen, has shifted two of his candidates, Brackett and Johnson. The latter now is stroking and the former is at No. 2.

* * *

Noble and Greenough's second crew will probably take to the water in a day or two. Saltonstall will be at stroke, Greenough, No. 3, Clark, No. 2, and Palmer Scott at bow.

* * *

If Manager Harry Dixon of Rindge Tech can secure Russell field, North Cambridge, for tomorrow, his baseball team will line up against the M. I. T. freshmen. Coach Linehan, who played with Harvard some years ago, is hoping that the game will be played, as he wants to see how his boys shape up against the Tech nine.

* * *

Coach "Jim" O'Brien of Cambridge Latin will get a line on his ball tossers tomorrow when they meet the Lowell Textile nine at Lowell. In replacing Dan O'Flaherty as coach O'Brien has his work cut out for him. The former instructor saw his pupils win the high honors in the Triangular league, the past two years, but the boys are confident that O'Brien will prove equally successful.

* * *

Manager Harlan D. Knightly of the Johnson High School, North Andover, has completed one of the best schedules in the history of the school. Fourteen games have been booked as follows:

April 21, Wilmington High, at Wilmington; April 28, Lawrence High, at North Andover; April 30, Methuen High, at North Andover; May 5, open; May 7, Punchard High, at North Andover; May 8, Merrimac High, at Merrimac; May 10, Methuen High, at Methuen; May 15, Atlesbury High, at North Andover; May 19, Wilmington High, at North Andover; May 22, Merrimac High, at North Andover; May 26, Stoneham High, at Stoneham; June 2, Nashua High, at Nashua, N. H.; June 4, Groveland High, at Groveland; June 10, Amesbury High, at Amesbury; June 14, open; June 18, Groveland High, at North Andover.

Forty candidates are out for the Mechanic Arts High nine. Coach Dunn has the following veterans practicing daily: Lally, shortstop, Capt. Harold Connor, centre field, Halligan, third baseman, Ray Summerville, second baseman, and Phinney, catcher. Foremost among the new candidates are Reagan, Murphy and Heavy for first base, McKee, Geoghegan and Pratt, outfielders, Robey and Gunning, catchers.

Manager Herbert Pfau has arranged for the Mechanic Arts boys to play games with Lynn English High at Lynn on June 14, and a game with Lawrence Academy will be played at Groton on June 17.

Harvard Athletes Still Under Ban

This week will decide whether Harvard is to lose the services of several of its star athletes, including Billy Meanix, the former New England intercollegiate champion hurdler; Frank Fripp, a varsity outfielder; Hank O'Day, prominent infield candidate, and several lesser lights. The boys are taking the April hour "exams." Meanix's continued probation will deprive Harvard of a certain ten points in every meet in which the Crimson takes part.

Champion Tells How He Will Win

Johnson Predicts a Rough Fight

from the inside of the training camps as if Johnson is getting three times as much body massage as an ordinary man in training. It is evident he is trying to rub off the flesh and take no chances of road work weakening him at this stage of his training.

There may be an undercurrent of worrying just the same, as Johnson asks many questions about his opponent even though he seems to know all about him.

WILLARD WORKING HARD.

Willard worked in the rain before a big crowd and thought it did him good. Jess is just beginning to taper off now and will do little more glove work. He is certainly in wonderful condition in every respect and his friends think if he keeps up courage and heart and does not fall in the pinch he is a sure winner.

JOHNSON OFFERS TO BET $20,000 AGAINST $15,000 THAT HE WINS

HAVANA, April 2.—Jack Johnson today offered to bet $20,000 against $15,000 that he would win his fight with Jess Willard next Monday.

"This offer is open to anyone," said the champion, "but I cannot find any Willard money here except at odds of 3 to 1, which is an unfair price."

Jim Savage told me something today. Jim said he would rather take a right hand swing on the jaw from an ordinary fighter than one of Willard's left jabs on the nose. Savage says there never was a harder hitter in the ring and that Willard can knock out sparring mates as fast as they can get ready to face him.

"Don't believe that Jess isn't clever, either," said Jim. "He is awkward with his style and does not look much, but he is mighty hard to hit. He gets away well, stays covered just tight enough and generally is a bad man to handle.

SAVAGE PICKS WILLARD.

"Willard is so strong he tosses us around as he pleases, and I think him a sure winner on his punching ability. He is a good waiter and will tire the champion out in an hour. Johnson never faced a hitter of his type and will get the biggest surprise of his life when he feels the sting.

Other sparring partners back Savage up, and some of them make it stronger. There was a mild riot at Johnson's camp yesterday. It rained, and the champion did not work. About 400 paid to see the work out, and they raised a rumpus when no money was given them. Rain checks were promised them, but the crowd would not take them. The police were called and were forced to pull their guns. Johnson was laughing all the time. It is impossible for the big negro to take anything seriously.

JOHNSON BETTING FAVORITE.

There was a queer angle to the betting here. Charley Galvin, an European promoter, wants to bet $5,000 even money on Willard, but says he cannot find any Johnson money in the city of Havana. Race track bookies are phoribited from making books on the fight.

Oscar Bachman, a Chicago bookmaker, thinks the price should be between seven and eight to five with Johnson the favorite, but he won't bet anything. There is lots of talk about bets, but most of the money is for Willard.

JACK JOHNSON SECRETLY DEVISING NEW TRICKS TO USE ON JESS WILLARD

By FRANK G. MENKE.

HAVANA, April 2.—Jack Johnson is secretly devising new tricks and punches and perfecting new defensive tactics which he will use in the heavyweight championship fight with Jess Willard next Monday.

With the doors of his training camp locked the "Big Smoke" has been working under cover every morning for the past ten days. His partners in these workouts are Colin Bell and Sam McVey.

The reason for this secrecy on Johnson's part is that he does not want Willard to discover his new mode of fighting and takes means to circumvent the champion's style.

In these secret workouts Johnson has been boxing ten and twelve rounds. This makes a total of over twenty rounds of boxing the champion is going through daily. But the public is not aware of this secret training by the champion.

Colin Bell and George Munroe, former bantamweight champion, tipped me off to this scheme of Johnson's.

Before the public Johnson is boxing about twelve rounds every afternoon following his road work. Since he began training here the champion has reduced from 258 pounds to 223.

Should Willard win the championship he is planning a triumphal journey back to the United States. He will hire a special train at Key West, leaving Wednesday night and proceed by easy stages to New York. On the trip Willard will appear on the back platform and make speeches at all towns through which the train will pass.

Willard is drawing the most fashionable crowd at his training quarters, while the crowd watching the champion go through his daily workouts is composed mainly of negroes.

About 700 persons visit each training quarter daily. The fighters are charging 20 cents a piece to watch their training, and the sum thus realized almost pays their training expenses.

Six hundred American fight "fans" are already on the ground, and the Key West boats are bringing more in daily. A special boat is due to arrive here from New Orleans today.

The betting is still 2½ to 1, but only small wagers have been made, the Willard crowd holding back for better odds.

Tener Sees Great Baseball Season

CHICAGO, April 2.—Internal strife among the big baseball leagues has given place to harmony for a time at least, according to John K. Tener, president of the National League.

"The season of 1915 promises to be one of the best professional baseball has experienced," he said. "The war in Europe will keep people with money to spend here at home."

Crimson Track Star Is Out for Season

H. N. Minot, '17, is lost to the Harvard track team during the rest of the season because of trouble in his side brought on by an operation for appendicitis. Minot is a consistent performer and was looked upon as a sure point winner.

Williams' Men Get Letters.

WILLIAMSTOWN, April 2.—At a meeting of the Williams athletic council the following men were awarded varsity hockey insignia: H. C. Cole, Conklin, Cutter, MacNamee, Swain and Manager Hedden, '15; Coleman and Assistant Manager Brumbaugh, '16; Cutler, Ex. '16, and Rochester, '17.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville

Shortstop of the Braves

MACON, Ga., April 2.—This is going to be a severe year on the ball players. This statement is especially true as to the mediocre performers. The baseball magnates all over the country have started a period of entrenchment. They are reducing expenses and the ball player will be obliged to suffer in most cases. The 21-men-limit rule in the National league will cost many players their jobs. Some star performers will be let go and they will have a difficult time landing suitable berths. In former years they would be retained by the major league outfits and would be paid fat salaries. Most of the men who were not quite good enough for the big show would be sent to the International league, American Association or some other powerful minor league organization. These circuits were great money makers and each team carried close to 21 men, most of whom were well paid. It was not an uncommon thing for a player in the International league or American Association to be receiving more salary than some of the regulars on major league clubs.

* * *

The International league had a very poor season in 1914. Most of the clubs lost money with the result that the salary limit has been reduced for the coming season. A team will now be able to carry only fifteen players and a manager. This will mean that close to fifty players will lose their jobs. As scores of National league and American league players will also be chopped, the ball players will have plenty of troubles.

* * *

The Federal league was the ball players' refuge last year. The outlaws made it possible for many diamond celebrities to land fine berths. The veterans profited a great deal as a result of the Federal league. Many players, who were about to be released by big league clubs, induced the outlaws to give them long term contracts without any release clause. The outlaws were also instrumental in getting pay raises for a number of big league players who threatened to hurdle to the Federals unless the owners of the clubs for which they played opened up their money bags and distributed large bunches of good old United States currency.

* * *

Even the Federal league owners are going very slowly this year. They lost a great deal of money last season and do not intend to be so liberal during the coming campaign. They are not signing many veterans today. They only have use for high class performers, players who would be a box office asset.

* * *

The American league has not yet adopted the 21-men limit. Each club in Ban Johnson's circuit will be allowed to carry 25 players. But if the National league's system proves a success the younger organization will probably adopt it. I am not in favor of limiting a ball club to 21 men. Every player now in the South with the Braves is a fine performer and would be kept under ordinary circumstances. A number of them, however, will have to be let go on account of the present rule. By placing a limit on the number of players which a club may carry, baseball managers are discouraged from developing youngsters. They cannot afford to carry a recruit along for two years or so without using him a great deal. They are obliged to keep only experienced players. This is going to do a great injury to progressive managers and will also prove a detriment to the national pastime.

* * *

There are many cases where clever managers have developed youngsters by keeping them on the bench for two or three years. Connie Mack, Johnny McGraw and Boss Stallings have always made a feature of this kind of work. They have secured natural ball players and have then moulded them into stars. Mack brought Collins, McInnis and Baker along very slowly while McGraw has made many a youngster into a great star by careful coaching.

* * *

When "Rube" Marquad first joined the Giants, he was hailed as a sensation but failed to make good right off the bat. McGraw then sidetracked the "Rube" and coached him in the fine points of pitching. He did but little work for a couple of years but when McGraw started him out he proved one of the greatest left-handed pitchers in the big leagues.

Cubs Release McConnell.

CHICAGO, April 2.—The Chicago National League club has unconditionally released Pitcher George McConnell. He was purchased last Fall from the Buffalo International club.

BOSTON COLLEGE TO PLAY HARVARD

For the first time in her history, Boston College will play Harvard in baseball. The two managements have decided on May 15 as the date of the contest, which will be played at Soldiers Field. Boston College has a hard schedule this year including games with Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Tufts and Georgetown, all of which will be played in Boston.

The prospects for a fast team are bright. Over sixty men answered the first call for candidates.

"Joe" Dee, the veteran back-stop, appears to have his old position cinched. Dee is looked upon as one of the best college catchers in the game. Coach "Joe" Monahan faces his biggest problem in developing a pitcher. Halloran, Donnelly and Keefe of last year's team are available, but there is a scarcity of new material.

Among the most prominent candidates, are Captain Linehan, Glidea, Fleming, Hoefling, Gillespie, Casey, Gavin, Hopkins, Duffy, Driscoll, Logue, Daley, Watters, Bradley and McLoughlin. The schedule for the season follows:

April—27, pending; 28, Bates at University Heights; 29, Georgetown at Boston.

May—1, Rhode Island State at Kingston, R. I.; 5, Tufts at Medford; 8, St. Anselm at Manchester, N. H.; 13, pending, away; 14, pending, away; 15, Harvard University at Cambridge; 19, St. Anselm at University Heights; 21, pending, away; 22, Worcester Polytech. Inst. at Worcester; 27, Dartmouth at Boston; 29, Holy Cross at Boston; 31, pending, away.

June—5, M. A. C. at Amherst.

Ahearn Lacks a Stunning Wallop

PUGILISTIC BRADSTREET, NO. 2

Levinsky Has Very Peculiar System

By MIKE GIBBONS.

(Generally Agreed Upon by Ring Critics as the Most Wonderful Boxer of the Day.)

You must understand that there has to be some starting point when one begins to rate the fighters of one's own class. Some basis of 100 per cent. had to be taken for judgment, and Brother Tom always said that he made Mike Gibbons the only 100 per cent. boxer in the business. Of course, Tom is stretching that a good deal, but it is good enough for Tom's comparisons.

I've already told you that McGoorty is a more dangerous man than Clabby because he will give you a chance to outpoint him, something that is almost impossible when boxing Clabby. Dillon we regard as the more dangerous as between him and Chip, but neither of them the equal of Clabby and McGoorty.

AHEARN LACKS WALLOP, BUT IS CLEVER AND SPEEDY.

Ahearn must be placed in the clever class, the man without a stunning wallop, but always capable of outpointing any of them with the marvelous system of speed that he uses.

Murray is the direct opposite. He never back up, but is tearing on ahead at full steam.

That about exhausts the list of good ones among the middleweights and the light heavies, who say they can make 158 pounds, but never show it to the public. I've been asked about Young Mike Donovan, but there isn't much to be said about him. He simply hasn't had the experience, and that lets him out.

Bob McAlister of the coast I should put in the clever class. He gave me as much trouble as anybody until I began to make him forget what he knew. He is another Ahearn, or, to speak more correctly, Ahearn is another McAlister.

MUST WEAR M'ALISTER DOWN TO WIN BATTLE.

If you don't wear him down he is apt to stay out in front and beat you. He was one of the few boxers who completely failed me. Whatever I did he wouldn't come in to me. But the first time I got a solid punch in on him he forgot his system and then I put him down for the count. If he had remained away at long range I would have had a terrible time getting a verdict over him.

I've been asked about Levinsky, too. He's another bad one to try to beat. He has a peculiar system, first in and then out, always mixing it up like a good pitcher in a baseball game. I don't care for any of his game, for the simple reason that he is too big. Don't forget that I have just signed to make 145 pounds for Packey McFarland. A man who can do that really hasn't any business going out of the 158-pound class, or, for that matter, even into that division.

MIKE SINGS PRAISE FOR HIS BROTHER THOMAS.

Tom Gibbons? Well, I can't say about him for the reason that I never fought him. But he's a fine boy with a big punch and it is my honest opinion that he can gauge a punch as well as I can myself. Best of all, he is getting stronger without getting any bigger. We thought at first we had a white hope in him, but it looks as if he would remain a middleweight for some time to come.

(The third installment of the Mike Gibbons series of articles on boxing will appear in tomorrow's Boston AMERICAN).

New Bedford Man Real 'Double' for Giants' Manager

NEW BEDFORD, April 2.—Manager McGraw of the New York Giants has a double. Congressman Joseph Walsh of the Sixteenth District is the man who bears such a striking resemblance to the baseball leader.

"Hello, Johnny McGraw; I thought you were down in Marlin, Tex., with your ball team," said a fan to Mr. Walsh recently. "No," replied the Massachusetts Congressman. "I'm only on my way to Washington to represent my constituents. I don't happen to be McGraw, but I don't blame you for mistaking me for him. I've seen him and I agree that there is a great likeness."

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The sale of the celebrated Sheepshead Bay race track in New York was consumated Wednesday, closing the deal which had been hanging fire for several months. It is the intention of the men behind the new project to make this famous race track the greatest automobile race course in the world and although the course will be half a mile shorter than is the speedway at Indianapolis, it will be so constructed as to permit of greater speed. It will be possible for the drivers to make the turns at 110 miles per hour, they being banked to twenty-four feet.

The new course will be two miles in circumference and eighty feet wide, made of concrete and steel. The concrete will be mixed with an ingredient expected to prevent speed machines from making ruts in the track. Next to the track itself the big feature of the enterprise will be the grandstand, which will be the largest ever constructed in this country. It will seat an army of 100,000 persons without crowding. This gigantic structure will be of steel and concrete.

It is planned to have the stand built for Labor Day, when the motordrome will be opened with a series of automobile races among leading American and foreign drivers. The event is expected to bring together more of the world's crack drivers than any previous event.

* * *

Pleasure cars are no longer permitted to operate within the confines of the German Empire. This drastic rule went into effect after a warning of one month has been given to the automobile owners. It was designed to eliminate unnecessary consumption of gasoline, benzol, lubricating oil and tires, thereby lengthening the time during which the military authorities will have an ample supply of all these necessities of modern warfare.

* * *

Three eight-hour shifts per day are now running at the plant of the Thomas B. Jeffrey Company, at Kenosha, Wis., and the daily shipments now average twenty cars and twenty trucks per day. It is expected that by the first of April the output of cars and trucks will reach forty-five a day.

BROKERS THINK PROSPERITY HERE

By W. H. ROSS, FINANCIAL EDITOR.

This being Good Friday, stock markets are all closed. In this country they will reopen tomorrow. Business on exchanges during the first four days of this week was of large volume, and that brokers think activity will continue is indicated by the price paid for seats on the New York Stock Exchange. Two were sold on Wednesday and they brought $44,000 each. On Thursday one was sold for $45,500, an advance of $1,500 over night. About a year ago a seat sold for $34,000. It is believed that the valuation will mount to $50,000 soon.

HILL SEES PEACE AHEAD.

When interviewed in New York, James J. Hill expressed belief that peace in Europe is not far away. He said he expected the war would be over by October 1, remarking:

"The success of one side or the other will not settle the fight, but the physical, financial and industrial exhaustion of the belligerents will end the war by next Autumn."

As regards crop prospects, he said that a big wheat acreage would be planted in this country and that that in Germany, Austria and France would not be fifty per cent. of the average.

"The opening of the Dardanelles," he said, "should release about 130,000,000 bushels of wheat to Europe. The American farmer ought to get $1 a bushel for this year's wheat crop. Next year, when the war may be expected to be over, wheat may fall to 70 cents a bushel."

PROSPERITY AHEAD.

The National City Bank of New York, the greatest in the country, publishes a letter for April which is full of optimism. "If there is any country in the world," it says, "that at this time may adopt for its motto 'Business as Usual' it is the United States. Without indulging in extravagant expectations of what a record-breaking trade balance will do, if crop conditions are satisfactory, business should soon be better than it is now. The demand for agricultural products is increased by the war, and when the farming community is prosperous there is usually good business in this country. The time will soon be here when the crops will be the largest single factor in the situation."

CROP PROSPECTS GOOD.

Crop prospects at the present are very satisfactory. Some experts think that unless there is a bad weather set-back they will total $11,000,000,000 this year.

"There is one important fact to remember," said James J. Hill. "The agricultural crops of this country have a yearly value of $10,000,000,000 or more than the gold mines of the world produce in twenty-five years.

"With a backing like that no one or no one thing can, unless it be the cheap, demagogue politicians, can keep this country back."

200 STORE CLERKS STRIKE AT BARRE

BARRE, Vt., April 2.—Mercantile business here has been brought nearly to a standstill by a strike of 200 clerks. Storekeepers have called on members of their families to make possible the transaction of business.

The strike resulted, according to officials of the union, from dissatisfaction over working hours and holiday arrangements.

BOSTON AMERICAN
80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, APRIL 2, 1915.

The Gas and Electric Light Commission Should Be Consulted First

There are several bills now pending in the Legislature proposing an arbitrary reduction in the price of gas to the consumers of Boston. The law under which the sliding scale plan of determining the price of gas was established will expire by limitation this year. The experience therefore of ten years with this experimental plan must be utilized in determining the gaslight situation in Boston for the future. It is not at all certain that the authors of the proposal to reduce the price of gas are not right in the assumption that the price may be reduced and still allow a reasonable profit to the gas company upon its manufacture and sale.

But the AMERICAN asks the Legislature, in dealing with this important question, to remember that the Commonwealth has a Gas and Electric Light Commission with experience greater than that of any other body of men in the Commonwealth. This commission has enjoyed the public confidence for a number of years. In only two instances, we believe, has the commission refused to reduce the price of gas on petition by the consumers of the various localities where the price was challenged.

The commission originally opposed the establishment of a sliding scale. They have, however, watched its operation and may have reached conclusions which, from their experience and special study, would be most enlightening to the Legislature. We have established this commission to guide us in matters touching gas and electric lighting and to give us the benefit of an expert's knowledge. We should at least make some use of this instrument which we have created for this very purpose. Therefore the AMERICAN suggests that before the Legislature takes definite action the Gas and Electric Light Commission should be requested to make a general survey of the situation and report the facts and its recommendations to the Legislature. It may be found that the sliding scale plan has been a failure and ought not to be renewed. It may be found that it has proved all its friends contended for it. It may be found wise to extend it without alteration. It may be found wise to alter it, but to preserve its theory and principles. It may be found wise to abandon it altogether.

Let us have all the facts which our expert commission can disclose and let us also have the benefit of their expert opinion. We are not bound by any opinion which may be expressed, but we ought to hear it before we decide the question finally.

The Trenches of Europe Are Filled with Men Who Might Have Become Useful American Citizens

Because of the War, Immigration from Europe Is Less Than a Third of What It Should Have Been

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

In the first six months of the great war in Europe only 204,884 alien immigrants arrived in the United States. In the corresponding six months of 1913-14 the immigration was 734,869.

Here is a tremendous loss to this country due to the war, a loss in citizenship, which is of far more importance than a loss in money.

Five hundred thousand men who might today be developing the farms and the industries of the United States and increasing its wealth are in the trenches of Europe, fighting or lying silent, their careers as either soldiers or citizens forever at an end.

The immigration of the United States comes from all European countries, and the immigrants become good citizens almost immediately, taking part in all the trades and the professions, building up great industries, creating wealth, and producing on the farms the grain and beef that help to feed the whole world.

Among the half million who did not come this year, because they were sent by their rulers to fight in a rulers' quarrel, must have been many men of high ability, "hands," to use the poet Gray's phrase, "that the rod of empire might have swayed, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre."

But dull or brilliant, genius or dolt, they were turned aside from the ambition that called them to a greater country and sent out to stop bullets and bayonets.

Half a million men could found a fairly important race. Their value to the United States would have been incalculable.

Supposing this war had taken place in the days when this country was receiving its greatest impetus from Europe, when immigration was building up the East and the West, when every industry and every railroad depended on it.

Progress would have been delayed fifty, perhaps a hundred, years. Today we should be commercially no more important than we were at the end of the Civil War. There would be no network of railroads covering the country, no mile-rows of skyscrapers in the great cities, no ten-acre tracts of factory buildings in the manufacturing towns.

Without immigration this country could not have been developed. Without immigration it cannot prosper in the future.

It is better able now to endure such a wholesale reduction in immigration that it would have been fifty years ago, but such a reduction now means a serious loss.

In the next ten or fifteen years Europe will need all the men she can keep, but after such a war as is now going on the intelligent European will, it is to be hoped, prefer a country in which war cannot be made save by the consent of the people, and the United States, by encouraging immigration, can secure the best blood that the war shall have left in Europe.

Love Must Be Practical After Marriage

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Shows That Demonstrations of Affection Count for Little with Man if Home Is Disorderly and His Dinner Badly Cooked

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

AFTER marriage a man likes to be loved practically.

All the affection and demonstrations of love possible cannot render him happy if his dinner is not well cooked and if his home is disorderly! Grant him the background of comfort and he will be contented to accept the love as a matter of course.

Grant a woman all the comfort life may offer, yet she is not happy without the background of expressed love.

When men and women both learn to realize this inborn indifference of each other's natures and to respect it marriage will cease to be a failure.

In this, women are ready to make their part of the concession more cheerfully than are men. Women who loathe housework and who possess no natural taste for it become excellent housekeepers and careful, thrifty managers, because they realize the importance of these matters in relation to the husband's comfort.

But how few men cultivate sentiment, although knowing it so dear to the wife.

Man is forever talking eloquently of women's sensitive, refined nature, which unfits her for a public career. Yet this very sensitiveness he crucifies in private life by ignoring her need of a different heart diet than the one which he requires.

Wives throng the cooking schools hoping to make their husbands happier thereby. Why not start a school of sentiment wherein husbands should be coached in paying graceful compliments and showing delicate attentions, so dear to their wives?

A man likes to be loved cheerfully. A morbid passion bores him inexpressibly, no matter how loyal it may be.

He likes tact rather than inopportune expression of affection. He likes to be treated with dignity in public. Nearly all women are flattered and pleased if the man they adore exhibits his love before the whole world.

If he defies a convention for their sake, they feel it a tribute to their worth and charm.

This is true of the most dignified and correct woman. But I have yet to see the man who is not averse to having the woman he loves provoke the least comment in public. He seems to feel that something is lost to him if the public observes his happiness, however legitimate and commendable it may be.

The woman who is demonstrative when he wants to read, and who contradicts him before people an hour later, does not know how to make a man happy. He is better satisfied to have her show deference to his opinions and suppress her demonstrations if she must choose.

A man likes a woman to show her love in occult ways, to consult his tastes, to agree with him in his most cherished opinions, to follow his counsel and to ask his advice. He will not question her love if she does this. But a woman needs to be told in words how dear she is, no matter what other proofs a man may give.

Yet few men live who do not appreciate a little well-timed expression of love, and every man is made happier and stronger by the praise and appreciation of the woman nearest to his heart.

The strongest man needs sympathy and is made better by it, though he may not confess it. The tendency of the age is to give all the sympathy to woman; the tendency of woman is to demand all the sympathy. But not until woman sympathizes with man in his battle with the world and himself, and not until man sympathizes with woman in her soul hunger, will the world attain to its best.

It is a queer fact that while women are without doubt the most lovable objects in the world, yet on man is lavished the greatest and most enduring passions.

A great many women go through life without ever having been loved by any man.

I doubt if any man ever reached old age without being adored by some woman.

"The Dreaming Lady,"
by Anna Katharine Green

In which is told the exploit of a young woman detective in solving the mystery of a hidden will. In this story which Mrs. Green has written for the AMERICAN Sunday Monthly Magazine she has surpassed even the high standard she has set in her previous brilliant detective tales. There is no writer living today who can build up such baffling mysteries as she, and surely there can be no more attractive detective in the world than her creation, Violet Strange.

"The Three Laws of Nature and the Golden Rule," by Morgan Robertson.

Wherein is described the life and love of a boy and girl who were cast up by the sea on an uninhabited island when small children. Mr. Morgan Robertson, undoubtedly the greatest writer of sea stories that America has ever produced, has presented an absorbingly interesting situation in this wonderful story of primordial life on a tropic island.

☘ Science for Workers ☘

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

Q.—"How am I to figure out the law of gravitation? I drop a pebble into my well, 160 feet to the water. I understand it takes one second for the first sixteen feet. How can I figure out the increase in number of feet per second as distance increases?"—C. H. Goodacre.

A.—The laws of falling bodies are that at the exact end of the first second of fall, at mean sea level in a vacuum, the space fallen through is 16.1 feet. At the instant of end of one absolute second of time the falling body has acquired a velocity of 32.2 feet per second. And this is the regular rate of increase per second thereafter. There is only one value given by Mr. Goodacre—160 feet, or space. Then time of fall and velocity acquired must be found. First find the time required to fall 160 feet. Mathematical research has proven that the time equals the square root of the quotient obtained by dividing twice the space by the force of gravity. Twice 160 equals 320, which, divided by 32.2 equals 9.9379, whose square root is 3.152, the number of seconds. Since the constant acceleration in velocity is 32.2 feet per second, the final speed must equal the product of time and acceleration. Then 32.2 multiplied by 3.152 equals 101.4944 feet per second velocity when stone strikes water in well.
